NON-CESS DISTRICTS.

E. T. ATKINSON,

Accountant-General, Bengal.

THE following Report on the working of the Licensed Warehouse and Fire-Brigade Act during 1884-85 in Calcutta is published for general information.

J. WARE EDGAR,
Offg. Secretary to the Govt. Bengal.

No. 16, dated Calcutta, the 29th June 1885.

From—H. L. HARRISON, ESQ., C.S., Chairman of the Corporation of the Town of Calcutta,

To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Municipal Department.

I HAVE the honour to submit the following report under section 30 of Act IV (B. C.) of 1883 of the Jute Screw and Warehouses in the Town of Calcutta for the year ended 31st March 1885.

2. At the close of last year there were 76 sanctioned warehouses on the register within the limits of the town. Three new licenses for Nos. 67-9 Strand Road, 178 to 178-4 Upper Chitpore Road, and 2 to 2-2 Ram Kanto Bose's Street and No. 5 Ahireetollah Street were sanctioned during the year. These make up the total number of warehouses to be 79. Of these 6 were cancelled during the year for default of payment of license fees and one, viz. No. 76-2 Durmahatta Street, has been amalgamated with Nos. 80 and 80-1, thus reducing the number at the end of the year to 72, of which a complete list, arranged according to the Acts under which they were originally licensed, is appended to this report.

3. Ten applications were received during the year, 7 for licensing existing godowns for storage of jute, 2 for permission to construct new jute warehouses and 1 to rebuild an existing godown. Of these 10 applications 5 have been sanctioned, 2 were rejected for want of sufficent cart space, one has been withdrawn and 2 are under consideration.

4. The license fees realized during the year under notice from these 72 warehouses amounted to Rs. 23,275, or Rs. 141-10-8 more than last year.

5. There were two cases of fire during the year—one at No. 1 Ahireetollah Street and the other at No. 43 Nimtollah Ghat Street. The loss sustained by the owner in the former case amounted to about Rs. 1,000, and that in the latter to about Rs. 14,000. There was no case of infringement of the Jute Act on the part of the licensees.

6. The subjoined statement will show the receipts and expenditure of the Jute Warehouse Fund during the year under review.

Calcutta, the 20th July 1885.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 17TH OF JULY 1885.

At the close of the previous week a fairly steady monsoon current was blowing from the Bay of Bengal over the whole Province, and on the Saturday these conditions continued, though at the southerly and westerly stations there was rather a stronger westerly element than usual. Wind velocities showed that the monsoon current was a fairly strong one, and it brought light to moderate rain to all the districts of the Province, except to Orissa and some of the south-western stations of South-West Bengal, where the westerly current kept back the rain-bearing winds. The Bay of Bengal current, however, appeared to be gradually strengthening, and on the following day the westerly winds were being steadily driven back, and except at one or two stations had almost disappeared. Another small advance of the westerly winds again took place on the Monday, but only to be again driven back by the easterly and south-easterly winds on the Tuesday. On this day too a rather rapid fall of the barometer commenced at the coast stations at the head of the Bay, and this, taken in connection with the fact that winds began to indicate a slight tendency to cyclonic circulation in the north-west angle of the Bay, showed that a small barometric depression had formed. It was, however, only a very small and feeble one, and it was formed apparently close to the Orissa coast, and by the following day it had crossed the coast and was in Orissa, the lowest barometric pressure on the morning of Wednesday, the 15th, being reported from Cuttack. On the Thursday, so far as the reported wind directions showed, the small depression had advanced in a north-westerly direction, and it was probably to the west of Orissa or in the west of Chutia Nagpur. The storm was an exceedingly shallow one, and it gave only light showers to the districts through which it passed. On Friday, the last day of the week under review, a second exceedingly feeble barometric depression formed itself; but this time it was formed over the Sunderbuns, and its centre was some little distance to the south-east of Calcutta. This very feeble storm moved during the Friday night and Saturday in a westerly direction, but it was altogether of such slight intensity, that it had almost disappeared as a distinct depression during its westerly movement, and it also only brought extremely light rain in most instances to the districts through which it passed.

During the first three or four days of the week, while there was the slight oscillating action between the two wind systems as before described, conditions were apparently favourable for the production of rainfall in the districts near the hills, and thus heavy rain was reported from North Bengal, North Behar, and Behar generally, while conditions were not so favourable to heavy rain in such districts as South-West Bengal and Orissa. Again, after this oscillating action had ceased, and during the formation of the two feeble barometric depressions above alluded to, the monsoon winds were to a certain extent kept back from their advance over the Province, and thus during this period rainfall over the Province became lighter, and as the depressions were of such feeble nature, they brought little or no rain to compensate for the partial stoppage of the monsoon current. Except, then, in the district of North Bengal and of Behar generally, rainfall has been comparatively light, and, as will be seen in the review of the rainfall, all the districts except those mentioned have received decidedly deficient rainfall for the week.

Pressure—Was during the previous week slightly in excess over the Province, the average excess for the week being 0·012″. The tendency of the changes during the present week has been to intensify the excess pressure, and the average variations for the whole Province for the week has been an excess pressure of 0·03″ above the normal. The excess pressure, as may be expected, has been smallest in Orissa and at the southern stations in South-West Bengal, but excepting in these localities the excess pressure has been nearly evenly distributed. The variations of pressure during the week have been of the usual oscillatory character, and thus on the Saturday and Sunday pressure generally fell at all stations, and this was succeeded by an increase of pressure on the Monday, and to a certain extent on the Tuesday. For the remainder of the week the pressure variations were to a great extent dependent on the formation and movement of the barometric depressions, which have been previously described.

Temperature—Variations have generally been small during the week, and except in Orissa and at some of the southern stations in South-West Bengal, temperature has been generally below the normal by small amounts. The variation from the normal temperature is generally very small, and the largest variation is a defect of 1·2° in North Behar, while the greatest excess is of 0·3° in Orissa; for the whole Province the average variation has been a defect of 0·6°.

The character of the prevailing winds has been to a great extent discussed previously under the meteorology for the week, and it will have been seen that, for a considerable part of the week, light winds brought up by the Bay of Bengal monsoon current have prevailed over almost the whole of the Province, though during the formation of the two small barometric depressions, cyclonic circulation of winds was distinctly perceptible round the areas of low pressure.

The rainfall for the week has neither been so continuous or so heavy as during the previous week. It is true that fairly general rain fell in all districts except Orissa, and some parts of South-West Bengal, for the first three or four days of the week; but the only districts in which the rainfall was really heavy were North Bengal, North Behar and to a certain extent South Behar. For the latter part of the week rainfall was decidedly less general, and in very few instances were anything like heavy falls registered. For the whole week the average amount of rain which has fallen in North Bengal has been 4·19 inches against the normal fall of 2·88 inches, which is no less than 45 per cent. in excess of the normal. In North Behar the average amount recorded for the week has been 2·30 inches against the normal fall of 2·05 inches, which is 12 per cent. in excess. In South Behar the fall was 2·21 inches against the normal 2·26 inches. and therefore in this case the fall was only 2 per cent. in defect of the normal. In South-West Bengal the amount registered has been 1·30 inches against 2·60 inches, or a defect of 50 per cent. of the normal fall. East Bengal has received 1·40 inches against 3·69 inches, which is equal to a defect of 62 per cent. Chutia Nagpur has received 1·59 inches against the normal 2 94 inches, and is therefore 46 per cent. in defect, while finally Orissa has recorded 1·62 inches against 3·62 inches, and the defect in this instance is 54 per cent. Some of the particular districts have received very heavy falls during the week, and thus Dinagepore registers no less than between eight and nine inches of rain, while the normal fall is only 2·4 inches, and at Churaman the very large amount of 10·88 inches fell in the week. The Maldah and Purneah districts also report good heavy rain. The rainfall on the whole has, however, been fairly well distributed in the districts, and there do not appear to be any particular instances where districts have during the week, been extremely deficient in rainfall beyond the other or neighbouring stations, though of course as large tracts of the country have received deficient rainfall during the week, so also a large number of the districts are very considerably in defect. The actual number of rainy days during the week has been rather more nearly normal than the rainfall itself, and thus it may be concluded that the showers which have fallen this week have been decidedly lighter than usual.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the Province for the week ending Friday, the 17th of July 1885:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86 formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

OFFICE OF SANITARY COMMISSIONER FOR BENGAL,
The 20th July 1885.

R. LIDDERDALE, M.D., Deputy Surgeon-General,
Sanitary Commissioner for Bengal.

MEMORANDA.

THE main facts disclosed by the vital statistics of the principal Municipalities in Bengal for the week ending 4th July 1885, as exhibited in the table appended to this Memoranda, are :—

1. That births and deaths were recorded in these Municipalities in the proportions per 1,000 of population of 23·0 and 29·6, respectively, as opposed to 21·0 and 28·8 per 1,000, respectively, during the preceding week ending 27th June, indicating an improvement in the registration of both events, especially of births.

2. That these events were recorded in the highest proportions in the following Municipalities :—

Births.

	Ratio per mille.
Gya	42·3
Bhagulpore	37·1
Monghyr	36·2
Chittagong	35·2
Serampore	33·4
Patna — — —	31·4

3. That the diseases specified in the table above alluded to furnish the death-rates exhibited below, in contrast with the results of the preceding week :—

	Ratio per mille during weeks ending—
	4th July 1885.	27th June 1885.

Small-pox	·8	·3
Fever	10·7	9·6
Bowel-complaints	3·6	4·1
Injury	·6	·4
Other causes	8·8	8·1

Denoting that there was a sensible abatement in the death-rate from cholera with an increase in that from fever, and that the casualties from the rest of the diseases exhibited only fractional differences.

4. That while the mortality from bowel-complaints and injury was nowhere noticeably high, the Municipalities named below were reported to have returned the highest death-rates from the rest of the diseases indicated in the above table :—

Cholera.

	Ratio per mille.
Puri ...	46·2

* A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the natives remains as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Age," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of the Europeans above alluded to, cannot be employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the authorized form of age classification.

GENERAL REMARKS AND EXPLANATIONS

In seven out of the thirteen heads under which the total traffic of the line is shewn there has been a serious falling off aggregating 1,950 95 tons as compared with last May's results.

The principal decreases are in food-grain, gunny-bags, piece-goods, salt and seeds, and can fairly be attributed to trade fluctuation and causes beyond control.

Increases.

Ginger ... ... Tons 446·69

A decent crop and good demand will explain this increase.

Jute ... ... Tons 646·40

Loose jute must be in demand and imports are coming in. The weather for the new crop is reported favourable.

Miscellaneous ... ... Tons 78·56

The fluctuations of the traffic under this head continue to be influenced by local despatches of timber, bullies, lime, &c.

Sugar ... ... Tons 57·64

A slightly more active local enquiry has set in, but it is doubtful if it will last.

Tea ... ... Tons 209·00

Prices quoted are two annas over last year's opening rates, and hence teas of good flavor met with prompt sale.

Tobacco ... ... Tons 598·54

The enquiry in Calcutta and Rangoon mentioned in last month's report has caused this improvement.

Decreases.

Ale ... ... Tons 30·49

This traffic is subject to small fluctuations consequent on the number of troops at the depôt.

Food-grain ... ... Tons 2,198·90

No business is doing in any description of rice, and the local demand for paddy has fallen off.

Gunny-bags ... ... Tons 119·85

Both prices and demand have declined.

Piece-goods ... ... Tons 355·11

The setting in of the rains always checks this traffic to a certain extent.

Railway material ... ... Tons 93·47

During the month no sleepers came forward for the Engineering Department.

Salt ... ... Tons 722·45

It is difficult to explain this large decrease in the face of excessively low railway freights and an active jute market. The dullness of the rice and paddy traffic may, however, account for some of this, for I find that the merchants of these staples also have return consignments of salt sent them for value of downward rice and paddy consignments.

Seed ... ... Tons 467·51

To induce business, the present prices demanded by senders must be reduced.

DISTRICT ROAD FUND.

NOTIFICATION No 303.

The 21st July 1885.

THE following annual accounts and reports of the Road Cess Committees of the districts of Burdwan, Bankoora, Beerbhoom, Midnapore and Hooghly and Howrah for the cess year 1883-84, together with the remarks thereon of the Commissioner of the Burdwan Division, are published for general information.

G. F. E. S. NEILL, Major, M.S.C.,
Under-Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal, P. W. Dept.

No. 75, dated Burdwan, the 10th January 1885.

From—The Chairman, District Road Cess Committee, Burdwan,
To—The Commissioner of the Burdwan Division.

I HAVE the honour to submit the annual road cess report of works done and in progress during the cess year 1883-84, together with the detailed accounts of receipts and expenditure prepared by the Vice-Chairman and examined and certified to by the Audit Sub-Committee.

2. The total demand for the year, including arrears, was Rs. 1,75,450, and the total collections Rs. 1,27,807, or nearly 73 per cent. of the demand. The lowness of the collection of cess was owing to the actual collection of cess from rent-free lands falling short by Rs. 31,000 of the probable amount of collection calculated upon in the budget at the commencement of the year. About the close of the year an advance of Rs 25,000 was asked for from Government, but the Road Cess Committee having revised their budget for the current year, the loan asked for from Government was not required. Rupees 5,635 had been drawn from the treasury in September last, but in the following month the full amount was repaid.

3. The total receipts during the year amounts to Rs. 1,48,519-11-2 and the total expenditure comes to Rs 1,75,522-4-9. The year opened with a balance of Rs. 21,367-1-8, and closed with a deficit balance of Rs. 5,635-7-11. Particulars in detail of the receipts and expenditure will appear from the enclosed accounts

4. Original Works.—The following works were completed within the year:—

(1) Constructing a bridge on the Ryan village road.
(2) Metalling 4th mile, Gooskhara and Aushgram road.

5. The following works were partially done:—

(a). Dewangunge to Culna road (first section): half a mile of new road was constructed and materials collected for masonry works.
(b). Dewangunge to Culna road (second section): the earthwork in approaches to Chooneekhal bridge was done and materials collected for masonry works.
(c). Undul to Ookhra road. The earthwork on the whole length of the road was completed and some culverts built.
(d). The earthwork on the Satgachia and Montessur road has been completed all but ¼ mile, as land had to be acquired, of which possession was not received until the end of the year.

6. The following new works could not be taken in hand for want of funds:—

(a). Burdwan to Kurmoon extension road.
(b). Memari to Jourgram road.
(c). Buddipore to Culna road.

7. Repairs.—All the roads undertaken are reported to have been satisfactorily repaired during the year, though final payments for certain roads were not made within the year for want of funds.

8. With regard to the Burdwan and Cutwa road, the question of the construction of a tramway along it has again been brought forward. A memorial from the zemindars, merchants, and residents of Cutwa and its neighbourhood representing the necessity of a tramway is before the Road Cess Committee, and a Sub-Committee has been formed to consider and report on the matter.

9. Arboriculture.—There are now 32½ miles of road planted with trees in the district, of which 4½ miles were planted on the Gooskhara and Nittyanundpore road during the year. The trees on the six other roads were maintained.

10. Village roads.—Rupees 6,000 for the sudder and Rs. 2,500 for each of the three sub-divisions were allotted in the budget for village roads. The amount spent in each of the sub-divisions is shown below. The Chairman of the Branch Road Committee personally inspected most of the works, and it was found that the money advanced for village roads had been properly spent.

	Rs.
Sudder	5,634
Cutwa	2,440
Culna	2,500
Raneegunge	1,054
Total ...	11,628

11. Establishment.—The increase under this head is owing to advance payment of salary for September 1884 at the time of Doorga Poogah, and on account of extra establishment entertained by the Collector for the valuation of rent-free lands.

12. The District Engineer, Mr. E. A. Stoney, has continued to give satisfaction; and the work done by the various members of the various establishments has also been satisfactory.

No. 28, dated Bankoora, the 30th November 1884.

From—J. ANDERSON, ESQ., Chairman, District Road Cess Committee, Bankoora,
To—The Commissioner of the Burdwan Division.

I HAVE the honour to submit herewith the annual administration report of the Bankoora District Road Fund for the cess year 1883-84, commencing from 1st October 1883 to 30th September 1884.

2. Committees.—* * * * * * . The personnel of the District Committee consisted of 23 members at the commencement of the year, of whom seven were official and the rest (16) non-official. Of the latter, seven gentlemen having been absent at six consecutive meetings, ceased to be members under section 115 of the Act. Since the close of the year, however, fresh names have been sent up to you for appointment. In the Bishenpur sub-division also many members similarly ceased to be such under the rules. A revised list of members has lately been sanctioned by Government for the sub-division.

3. All the meetings of the District Committee were very fairly attended by the members residing in the town, and in every instance the Chairman was the President, excepting once, when the Vice-Chairman took the chair. Amongst the members living in the interior I may mention specially the name of Baboo Kalinath Chatterjee, who seems to take a real interest in the affairs of the Committee.

4. The office of Chairman was held by me throughout the year, except for a short period at the beginning of the year, when Mr. Samuells was acting for me. Baboo Pratap Narayan Singh was the Vice-Chairman of the Committee all the year round.

5. Realization of cess.—The road cess was levied at the maximum rate in the district during the year under report. It was on the whole realized without much difficulty from all revenue-paying and revenue-free estates, excepting the Ghatwali estates, which are always behind hand in payment. Out of the gross demand of Rs. 42,488 from lands and mines, Rs. 36,465 were realized up to the end of the year, leaving a balance of Rs. 5,564 (exclusive of the remission of Rs. 459) unrealized. Of this Rs. 1,400 were outstanding against Ghatwali and Rs. 4,164 against revenue-paying and revenue-free estates.

6. Revaluation.—The following is a brief narrative of the revaluation operations conducted in this district under Deputy Collector Baboo Siti Kanta Ghose.

(1) Partial revaluations under the Cess Act, 1880, are still in progress in this district, and are being carried on by Baboo Siti Kanta Ghose, Deputy Collector.

(2) The sanction of the Board of Revenue and of the Government of Bengal was received at different times to revalue 463 estates in this district (273 revenue-paying and 190 revenue-free). These 463 estates represent no less than seven-eighths of the sunder jumma of the revenue-paying parts and five-eighths of the acreage of the revenue-free parts of the old district, and about $\frac{1}{5}$ths of the transferred parts.

(3) Besides entering 2,299 tenures in Register II, and issuing 3,662 notices to the holders thereof, the Deputy Collector has received during the year under report 5,426 returns from the holders of estates and tenures, and has taken prompt action on each of them.

(4) He has completed the revaluation of 81 estates and 4,011 tenures during the year. Besides three estates have been exempted from assessment,—one as being below Rs. 5 in value, and two as being situated within the limits of municipalities, and 102 rent-free and other tenures have been exempted. Ninety of these latter were below Rs. 5 in value, and 12 were rights of fishery exempted under Board's circular order No. 5 of January 1884.

(5) Thus up to the end of September 1884, 406 estates and 17,494 tenures (including rent-free tenures) have been valued, and 11 estates have been exempted from assessment, leaving only 46 estates to be yet revalued.

(6) All the above 406 estates and 17,494 tenures have been valued on returns after due enquiry and testing of the returns, and not one was valued summarily as before.

(7) As stated in the previous reports, 13,433 lakheraj petitions, under section 67 of Act IX (B. C.) of 1880, have been received in this district. Of the rent-free tenures covered by these petitions, 1,922 have been valued and 107 exempted from assessment up to the end of September 1884. Of these, 988 have been valued during the year under report. The above 1,922 lakheraj tenures, as already stated, have been valued on returns, and the total annual value assessed thereon is Rs. 35,657, yielding a total cess of Rs. 2,228-9. The remaining lakheraj petitions, and the returns which were received simultaneously with the petitions, have all been arranged thannawari; and with the increased establishment are being disposed of, and the valuations of the lakheraj tenures contained therein are being effected more speedily than before, after taking the boundaries of each tenure. It may be stated here that in the course of the valuation of these lakheraj lands it has been found in many cases that lands other than lakheraj, such as punchak paying, Ghatwali, and other mal lands, as well as lakheraj lands, which were included in the original valuation, and for which cesses are being paid now, were erroneously entered in the lakheraj petitions. These errors are being rectified now on application by the holders of such lands while furnishing boundaries of their lands. Making all reasonable allowance for all such errors, I have reason to expect that there will be a large increase of revenue, not less than Rs. 10,000 from the lakheraj lands alone covered by the said petitions.

(8) The procedure adopted by the Deputy Collector is the same as followed in previous years. He has by his usual scrutinizing enquiry and testing of the returns been able to effect a large increase in the annual value of the khas lands. He has also been enabled to class 3,183 persons, who were wrongly returned as were cultivating ryots as tenure-holders under section 26 of the Act, and thereby to secure an increase of Rs. 1,18,514 in the annual value of the lands.

(9) Judging from the results of the estates and lakheraj tenures valued up to the end of September 1884, there has been a net increase of Rs. 1,04,406 in the annual value. On the other hand, a decided relief was given to those suffering from summary taxation, as is evident from the fact that there has been a decrease of Rs. 17,072 in the annual value of the estates which were valued summarily at the time of the original valuation.

(10) The above increase of Rs. 1,04,406 is of course exclusive of the increase in the annual value of the tenures comprised in the estates, the valuation of which has not yet been completed.

(11) Such results have been obtained by the unflagging zeal and thorough style of the Deputy Collector, whose acquaintance with the district is of long standing. It is to be noted here that his own industry has inspired his whole establishment, so that the work, which was immense, will be done not only thoroughly, but also cheaply in the long run.

7. Original works.—The following are the works of an important nature that were executed under the head "original works" during the year.

8. Indas and Kotulpur road.—The construction of this line of communication was undertaken in January 1882. The estimated cost of the work was Rs. 9,893. Rupees 7,500 were spent up to the end of September 1883, and the balance Rs. 2,393 was allotted for expenditure during the year under review. The work was reported to have been finished, but the final bill, however, was not submitted during the year. The road, as far as I saw during my last winter tour, was found to have been well done. After his inspection, the Divisional Superintendent proposed that a diversion of a portion of the road near Indas might be made, a causeway over the Khundanga khal constructed, and a culvert on the third mile for purposes of irrigation built. All these subjects will receive proper attention during the current year.

9. Indpur and Khatra road.—The construction of the first five miles of this road from Khatra has been reported as finished, but the final bill for the work has not yet been submitted by the District Engineer. It would have been satisfactory if this, as well as the Indas to Kotulpur road, had been finally paid for during the year. These five miles are not of much benefit until the remaining seven to Indpur are constructed. The departmental formalities of sanction seem to be taking more time than is necessary. The project for this road has, I understand, been prepared long ago, but unfortunately it could not as yet for want of technical information assume a proper form for the approval of Government. The Committee will be glad to find that no further delay is incurred in this matter.

10. Pilgrim road.—The culvert which was wanting over a gap on this side of the Gundhessury has been constructed and much inconvenience to travellers has been thereby removed. However, as the Divisional Superintendent stated when I went over the road with him, it must be metalled in order to be properly available.

11. Taldanga and Raipur road.—All that was done in respect of this road during the year was the preparation of projects. I am sorry that the idea of a bridge over the Joypanda has had to be abandoned as impracticable owing to the poverty of the Committee. The necessary project for the line has now, I am glad to report, been sent up by the District Engineer for approval of the Divisional Superintendent. The first two miles are the worst portion, and it would be a boon if sanction to the construction of these two miles be obtained without further loss of time.

12. Raipur and Salboni road.—To remove the very great inconvenience of the people of Raipur for want of roads to the trading marts, a sum of Rs. 1,206 was sanctioned for improving the cart track from Raipur to Salboni (as far as the frontier), with deviations here and there. The work was finished in accordance with the estimate during the year under report.

13. A regular project for a road, however, was deemed very desirable between these two places, and it is now under preparation. The Committee, at their meeting on the 25th June last, suggested the advisability of the alignment being chosen over the high lands on the left bank of the Cossye rather than over the low lands on the right side beyond village Dublala, which are annually subject to flood and full of sands. The road thus aligned would also meet the traffic of the lands on the left bank of the Cossye more advantageously without affecting the convenience of traffic on the right bank, in as much as it would save the former the trouble of crossing the river twice. This question was discussed with the District Engineer by the Divisional Superintendent during his late inspection.

14. Village roads.—The next work worthy of notice under head "Original works" is the construction of village roads. Only three village roads in the sudder sub-division of the district were improved during the year. Pakhanna to Asuria, Onda to Chabra and Simlapal. For the Pakhanna-Asuria road the villagers contributed Rs. 25, Messrs. Gisborne & Co. for the Ondah and Chabra road Rs. 137, and the residents for Simlapal Rs. 67. The first two have now been entered on the list as fourth class roads.

15. In the Bishenpore sub-division nine village roads were improved during the year at an expense of Rs. 560 (including advance), of which Rs. 90 were contributed locally.

16. Arboriculture.—Four thousand nine hundred and thirty-four trees that were planted and maintained up to the end of the year 1882-83 were properly taken care of during the year under review. There were 10 paid coolies employed on some roads all the year round to look after and water the plants and repair the fences. On several other roads the work is done on the piece-work agreement system. The current year will probably be the last for spending money on trees, as those that have been planted will grow up to such a height as not to require further looking after. The trees, as far as I saw on my last cold weather tour, were found to be growing well on many of the roads.

17. Repairs.—All the repair works were completed and finally paid for during the year. The suggestions made by the Divisional Superintendent with reference to several roads during his personal inspection have been attended to by the District Engineer. The outcry for roads in southern Bankura being great, much cannot be spent in repairing the roads. I visited almost all the roads during my late winter tour, and the condition in which I found them was on the whole satisfactory. I have seen very little of the repair works of the year under report, and I am therefore unable to give an opinion regarding them. The sub-divisional officer reports that the roads within the sub-division are in good order.

18. Special works.—I may here mention that owing to the partial failure of crops in and around thana Sonamukhi, a great pressure has been put upon the resources of the agricultural classes in the neighbourhood. Reports during August and September months on the prospects of the crops and the condition of the people were so gloomy that special measures had at once to be taken to remove distress. Besides the usual tuccavi advance system, proposals were made to offer labour from the Road Cess Department on road works. Rupees 2,945 were voted for expenditure on the several roads named in the margin. On the 15th September last the collection of metal on the Panighar and Bishenpore road was commenced, and a large number of cartmen who were certified to be actual sufferers were allowed to work thereon. On the Pakhanna and Asuria road also lots of people were employed. The works on the other three roads (Nos. 1, 2 and 3), which were made over to the charge of the sub-divisional officer, have not yet been done. The necessary preliminaries took up some time, but these roads are now about to be commenced.

19. Character of officers.—The Vice-Chairman, Baboo Protap Narain Singh, did his work to my entire satisfaction, and the accountant, Baboo Bama Charan De, in his office is an excellent and trustworthy business man, with a neat style of account keeping. The District Engineer's office was inspected since the close of the year and found in very praiseworthy order by the Divisional Superintendent. Baboo Nobo Gopal Banerjee takes an interest in his work, and has given me much satisfaction. The state of his office shows that his draughtsman and clerk looks carefully after it.

20. The state of the roads has very much improved during the five years I have been connected with this district, as well as the style of workmanship. I trust that the work of the contractors will gradually be brought up to a high style, while at the same time full freedom of competition be adhered to. Many new roads have been constructed and are still in progress, and with the income of revenue expected they may be efficiently maintained, at any rate by the adoption of means for curtailing all absolutely unnecessary extras.

* In the original budget for 1883-84, expenditure on account of process fees was allotted under head "Miscellaneous" but in the subsequent revised budget (prepared in January 1884) it was ordered to be shown under head "Contingencies of collection office." The sum of Rs. 139 was expended in process fees up to January 1884 and is therefore shown in the accounts under head "Miscellaneous." The actual expenditure, however, under the head "Miscellaneous" should be less by Rs. 139 and that under head "Provincial rate" increased by Rs. 139.

P. N. SINGH,

Vice-Chairman.

No. 29, dated Soory, the 24th January 1885.

From—W. FIDDIAN, ESQ, Chairman, Road Cess Committee, Beerbhoom,
To—The Commissioner of the Burdwan Division.

I HAVE the honour to submit the annual report of the Beerbhoom District Road Fund for the cess year 1883-84, together with a detailed statement of the income and expenditure for the same.

2. In the year under review the number of road cess meetings held was eight, including one at which there was no quorum. The members named in the margin did not attend any meeting at all during the year, and their appointment accordingly lapses. The majority of the members have taken a fair degree of interest in the proceedings of the Committee, but the principal part of the work fell chiefly on Government officials.

Baboo Romaprosunno Singh.
,, Durga Das Roy.

3. There are 489¼ miles of road in this district, classified as below :—

First class	114½
Second ,, ...	190¼
Third ,, ...	77
Fourth ,, ...	107½
Total ...	489¼

4. It having been found that work in the Collection Department increased considerably on account of the valuation of lakhraj tenures under section 67 of the Cess Act, IX of 1880, and on account of the numerous processes that had to be issued under the Public Demand Recovery Act, two additional mohurirs were appointed to cope with the work. There has been no change in the Executive Department.

5. The percentage of fixed charges for establishment during the year was 19 per cent., as compared with 18 per cent. in the previous year.

6. The cash balance at the close of the year preceding was Rs. 11,976-0-9. The collections from road cess and other sources amounted to Rs. 67,033-2, and the outstanding balance of road cess on the 30th September 1884 was Rs. 17,856. Of this amount, Rs. 5,003 was due from Moorshedabad and Burdwan.

7. The total expenditure during the year came up to Rs. 80,096-14-2, out of which Rs. 14,525-14-1 was spent for establishment and other charges, and the balance Rs. 65,571-0-1 was disbursed for original and repair works.

8. The important works undertaken and executed during the year under report were the following:—

A masonry well with pump has been sunk in connection with the Soory staging bungalow.

The road No. 39, Laghata to Kalgram, is ten miles in length, and 69 chains of it have been metalled during the year.

An inspection bungalow, at a cost of Rs. 1,447-2, was built at Rajnagore.

Two three-feet span culverts were built on the road Soory to Cynthea, and one three-feet culvert on the road Soory towards Doomka.

One four-feet and one three-feet span culvert were built on the road Soory to Ahmedpore.

A culvert of five-feet span on the road Soory to Rajnagore had wing walls added, and one four-feet and one three-feet culvert were built on the same.

One four-feet and one three-feet culvert were also built on the road Soory to Doobrajpore.

A culvert of three-feet span was built on the Soory station road, and another on the road Soory to Kuddia.

A culvert of two-feet span was built on the road Bolepore to Bengchuttra.

Two three-feet culverts and one two-feet culvert were built on the road Soorool to Gonotea.

A four-feet span culvert and a three-feet culvert were also built on the road Doobrajpore to Elambazar, and a two-feet culvert on the road Parse to Kusba.

Two four feet culverts were built on the road Laghata to Goga, and a three-feet culvert on the road Donipore to Sacoolipore.

Two three-feet culverts were also built on the road Ramnuggur to Kutasore.

Wing walls to the bridge over the Pugla Nuddee were re-built, and five wooden bridges on the road Mohamedbazar to Mullarpore have been also built.

The approaches to the Agoa Kandore bridge on the road Ahmedpore to Laghata were well protected.

Wooden bridges on the roads Poorunderpore to river Adjai, Bolepore to Soorool, Laghata to Kalgram, and Bolepore to Kusba were repaired and kept in good order.

9. Besides the above, 35 Raneegunge pipe drains were constructed on both the metalled and unmetalled roads.

10. All the metalled and fair-weather roads provided in the budget for the year were repaired and kept in good order.

11. The inspection bungalows, both in the sudder and sub-division, have been repaired and maintained.

12. A sum of Rs. 1,455-8 was paid for the repair of village roads.

13. Much attention has been paid to arboriculture. Wells have been dug in the following inspection bungalows to water the plants adjacent to them :—

Bolepore inspection bungalow. | Rajnagore inspection bungalow.

Some two thousand seedlings were planted out during the year. The charges on account of arboriculture amounted to Rs. 741-12-3.

14. The District Engineer, Mr. J. H. Grant, has worked efficiently and maintained the roads in good order, keeping a vigilant eye on weak or dangerous bridges. He speaks well of the two sub-overseers who have worked under him.

15. The Committee's head clerk and accountant, Baboo Baranosi Dutt, is careful and thoroughly competent.

W. FIDDIAN,
Chairman.

No. 212, dated Midnapore, the 30th January 1885.

From—BABOO BEPIN BEHARY DUTT, B.A. & B.L., Vice-Chairman,
To—The Commissioner of the Burdwan Division.

I HAVE the honour to submit the annual accounts* and report of the Midnapore District Road Fund for the cess year 1883-84.

* Per packet post.

2. The annual accounts were duly examined and audited by the Sub-Committee, and passed at a special meeting of the Committee held on the 23rd instant.

* * * * *

4. * * * The percentage of average attendance of members was 37·5, while that of the previous year was 36·06. During the year under report there were four meetings of the Branch Committee at Tumlook and one meeting at Contai. In all the meetings of the Branch Committees there was quorum.

5. The following are most important and noteworthy works under the head of "Original Works" in the course of construction or executed during the year:—

(a)—The remaining unmetalled portions of the Bombay road between Ladhasali and Chichra have been metalled, and the road hitherto remaining in an impassable state during the rains is available to traffic throughout the year.

(b)—An inspection bungalow is under construction at Chichra on the same road.

(c)—The 10th and 11th miles of the Ghattal and Chunderkona road are being widened and raised. This improvement will render the passage of traffic safer, as the present crest of the road is narrow and high.

(d)—The remaining unmetalled portions of road No. 9, Chunderkona to Amlagorah, have been metalled, and some irrigation culverts also are being built.

(e)—The bridging of road No. 12, Dohijuree to Sildah, is towards completion, and it is hoped that all the remaining bridges will be constructed during the present year.

(f)—An inspection bungalow is under construction at Kesiary on road No. 22, Khargopore to Kessiary, as its want has been greatly felt.

(g)—A similar inspection bungalow is under construction at Pirakata on road No. 29, Satpatty to Kantapahary.

(h)—The metalling of Mohunpore and Kurgopore road has been completed, and the construction of some irrigation culverts is in progress. Since the completion of the metalling a considerable increase of traffic on it has been observed, so that it has been found necessary to maintain it in a more substantial manner than usual.

A feeder road has also been constructed from Mohunpore Lock to Sudder Ghat on the right bank of Cossye. This road has added a good deal to the public convenience, especially of the Calcutta-going public.

(i)—The works of the new road from Pingboni to Salboni are in good progress, and it is hoped that the road will be completed this year.

6. Trees have been planted on some principal roads, and those planted already have been maintained and reared. Their general growth and health are promising and satisfactory.

7. All other metalled and unmetalled roads, and the bridges on them, were kept in necessary repairs throughout the year.

8. A statement showing the number and length of village roads repaired and constructed during the year is as given below:

NAME OF SUB-DIVISION.	Number of village roads repaired and constructed during the year 1883-84.	Approximate length of the village roads.	Actual expenditure incurred during the year 1883-84.	REMARKS.
		Miles.	Rs. A. P.
Sudder sub-division	42	153	8,055 15 2
Tumlook „	7	34	9,197 0 3	In the Tumlook sub-division Rs. 5,777-4-9 were paid on account of last year's work.
Contai „	16	72	3,409 0 9
Ghattal „	27	29½	2,388 4 0
Total ...	92	288½	23,050 10 2

9. Work on the village roads has been carried out chiefly by village punchayets under the supervision of sub-divisional officers, Chairman and members of Branch Committees; and in some cases by zemindars, planters, and missionaries. Like previous years, assistance of a sub-overseer from the district road establishment was allowed during the working season for the purpose of reporting on new proposals, checking accounts, &c.

10. The establishment under the Committee have worked satisfactorily. The books and accounts of the Committee have been kept systematically and with great care. The office was inspected by the local auditor in December 1884, and he was highly pleased with the office, especially with the accountant.

11. Baboo Chunder Siker Dass, Head Overseer, was in charge of District Engineer's office up to the end of January 1884: he worked satisfactorily and deserves much credit. Baboo Binoy Krishna Bose, the District Engineer, has been most assiduous and zealous in the discharge of his duties. The subordinate staff has worked well.

12. The new cess law has now been in force for four years, and it is no doubt an improvement upon the old law. The Deputy Collector in charge of collections says the procedure for realizing the cess under the new law is more effective. It is a matter of regret that people in general do not voluntarily pay the cess, and the bulk of it has to be realized by enforcements of the certificate procedure.

Explanatory Memorandum to accompany the Annual Account.

1. Receipt side.—In the annual account a sum of Rs. 1,093-3-3 has been shown as "fees, fines and forfeitures," but the progressive total of the monthly return for September 1884 shows Rs. 1,078-3-3 only against that head, that is less by Rs. 15. The sum of Rs. 15 on account of fine of contractors was erroneously shown in the monthly returns for July and August 1884 against the head of "Miscellaneous." This has now been transferred to its proper head, and the amount against the head of Miscellaneous has accordingly been reduced to from Rs. 3,823-7-3 to Rs. 3,808-7-3.

	Rs.
July	10
August	5
Total ...	15

2. The figures both of the receipt and expenditure sides of the quarterly returns for the 1st, 2nd and 3rd quarters have been compared with the monthly accounts of this office, and the total of each sub-head agrees with that of the annual account with the exception of the item mentioned above.

BEPIN BEHARY DUTT,
Vice-Chairman.

No. 505, dated Hooghly the 16th February 1885.

From—The Vice-Chairman of the District Road Cess Committee, Hooghly,
To—The Commissioner of the Burdwan Division.

I HAVE the honour to submit the Report* on the administration of the Hooghly and Howrah District Road Fund for the cess year 1883-84.

* Annual account for 1883-84.

* * * * * * * *

3. An increase of five miles to the total length of metalled roads under the District Road Cess Committees was made during the past cess year under report.

	1882-83.	1883-84.
Metalled roads	74·87	80·09
Unmetalled ,, ...	365·61	365·61

4. All repairs to roads as entered in the budget estimate were undertaken and duly completed within the cess year, with the exception of a certain quantity of earthwork to the flanks of four of the metalled roads, which could not be done during the rainy season owing to there being water in the side trenches. Bills for works amounting to more than Rs. 10,000 were passed, but could not be paid owing partly to delay in the District Engineer's office and partly to want of funds on the closing day of the cess year, as the last kist day fell within the Doorga Pooja holidays.

5. In the budget for 1883-84 no provision was made for any new work, except for the widening and metalling the roads from Boinchee to Jumna and from Boinchee to Bhustara; for the reconstruction of a bridge over the Rosna khall on the road from Pandua to Mohanad, and for the construction of two culverts and road No. 58 from Jehanabad to Goghat. These works were satisfactorily completed within the cess year, and opened to traffic in the beginning of September last.

6. The general condition of the bridges in the district is fair, and but that of the roads, both metalled and unmetalled, on which there was much traffic, is not altogether satisfactory, though improvement is visible at the time of visiting.

7. The state of the roads under class II (on which the roads are partially metalled and partially kutcha) was much improved in the Pandua, Serampore and Hooghly sub-divisions. The roads in the Jehanabad sub-division are yet in a very backward condition. During the year under report only one road, viz. that from Jehanabad to Khatool was thoroughly repaired, and provision has been made in the current year's budget for improving the old Nagpore road from Jehanabad to Shambazar. There can be little doubt that Jehanabad does not get its fair share of the road cess funds, and this will be remedied if possible in the next year's budget.

8. The village roads were repaired by the local sub-committees, zemindars, and village headman, whose work was fairly satisfactory, but some special check on this expenditure is required to prevent waste. In many instances the grants from the Committee were supplemented by local contribution. These works were supervised by the subordinate establishment of the District Engineer.

9. The experiment of planting fruit trees along the sides of district roads has to a great extent been successful, but it is very costly, and I much doubt if the benefit to the public is commensurate with the expenditure.

10. The subordinate establishment of the different departments of the Road Cess Office gave satisfaction in the discharge of their respective duties.

11. The working of the Branch Committee shows that most of the members took a fair share of interest in their work.

12. As regards the general working of the system, I agree with what my predecessors wrote in previous years, that on the whole the system works well.

MAHENDRA LAL DE,
Vice-Chairman.

No. 61, dated Burdwan, the 30th April 1885.

From—E. E. LOWIS, Esq., Offg. Commissioner of the Burdwan Division,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Public Works Department.

I HAVE the honour herewith to submit in original, for publication in the Calcutta Gazette, the annual reports* and accounts of receipts and expenditure of the Road Cess Funds of the several districts of this division for the cess year 1883-84.

* Enclosures sent by parcel post.

2. The total receipts in this division during the year amounted to Rs. 7,25,251-1-6 inclusive of Rs. 1,13,925-15-1 the balance in hand on the 1st October 1883, and of Rs. 79,539-13-2 under the head of advances and deposits. The net disbursements of the year amounted to Rs. 6,13,952-12-7, exclusive of advances and refunds of deposits amounting to Rs. 95,958-8-9. The balance remaining in hand on the 30th September 1884 is Rs. 20,975-4-1 exclusive of deficit balance, Rs. 5,635-7-11 in the Burdwan district.

3. Attention has been given by every District Committee to arboriculture. New trees have been planted on the sides of many of the principal roads of nearly every district, and those planted in previous years have in most cases been carefully preserved and maintained.

4 Attention has been given by the Road Cess Committees to the improvements of village roads.

5. The working of the Branch and District Committees shows that most of the members took a fair share of interest in their work.

Calcutta Port Trust.

GUARANTEED DEBENTURE LOAN, 1885.

The Calcutta Port Improvement Act, V of 1870 (B.C.), and the amending Acts, and the Act to enable the Commissioners for making Improvements in the Port of Calcutta to construct Docks at Kidderpore, Act II (B C.) of 1885. Issue of seventy-five lakhs of Rupees, 4½ per cent. debentures, having a currency of not less than forty years. Interest guaranteed by the Secretary of State for India in Council until such time as the loan is repaid.

TENDERS are invited for a loan of seventy-five lakhs of rupees at 4½ per cent. interest upon debentures to be issued under the provisions of Act II (B.C.) of 1885 to provide for the construction, equipment, maintenance, and management of the docks at Kidderpore, such loan having been sanctioned by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council by notification published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 22nd July 1885, Part I, page 717, the payment of interest thereon being secured by the guarantee of the Secretary of State for India in Council until such time as the loan is repaid, to which effect is given in the Act under which the loan is issued, by such interest being made a charge upon the revenues of Bengal.

The debentures will be for sums of Rs 100 each, or multiples of Rs 100, as may be desired, made payable to order, and carrying interest at the rate of 4½ per cent. per annum, payable half-yearly on the 1st day of January and 1st day of July at the office of the Port Commissioners upon presentation of the debentures. Two per cent. of the amount tendered for to be paid on application, 25 per cent on 1st September, 25 per cent. on 1st October, and the balance on 1st November 1885, into the Bank of Bengal. Any allotment may, however, be paid in full at the option of the tenderer upon receipt of letter of allotment, and interest will run on such payments from the date of the Bank's receipts.

The deposit of 2 per cent will be returned if an allotment is not made, and it will be forfeited if an allotment after being made is not fully taken up

In case a less number of debentures is allotted than is applied for, the excess of the deposit will be applied in or towards payment of the balance due upon such number as may be allotted.

Tenders in the prescribed form should be filled up and forwarded in sealed covers superscribed "Tender for Port Trust Dock Loan, 1885," to the Secretary to the Port Commissioners before noon of Wednesday, the twelfth day of August 1885, accompanied by a receipt from the Bank of Bengal for the deposit of 2 per cent. upon the amount of each debenture applied for. The Bank of Bengal's receipts for the subsequent payments should be forwarded to the Port Commissioners, who, upon the receipt of the acknowledgment for the final instalment, will issue the debentures for the amount allotted in such sums as the holders of the receipts may desire. Arrangements will be made, if required, to enface debentures issued under this loan for payment of interest in England by drafts on India.

The tenders will be opened in the presence of the Port Commissioners. The minimum rate at which tenders will be accepted will be recorded under the signature of the Chairman and before the tenders are opened, but will not be made public unless some tender is rejected only because it is below the recorded minimum.

Forms of tenders can be obtained on application to the Secretary to the Port Commissioners, and the form of debenture can be seen at the office of the Secretary. A separate tender must be made for each rate.

The 28th July 1885.—The Administration Report of the Meteorological Reporter to the Government of Bengal, for the year 1884-85, is published for general information.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

H. H. RISLEY,

Offg. Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE METEOROLOGICAL REPORTER TO THE GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL FOR THE YEAR 1884-85.

THE Bengal Meteorological Department was under the control of the permanent head of the department, Mr. John Eliot, from the beginning of the official year until the 9th of December 1884, when Mr. Eliot proceeded on furlough. From this date till the close of the official year the department has been under my charge.

During the year under review, the extended scheme of meteorological observation, and the special arrangements for the speedy transmission of the meteorological and rainfall observations taken throughout the province, together with their speedy reduction, collation and publication through the various publications of this office, which were sanctioned in the year 1882-83 and brought into action in 1883-84, have been carried out steadily. The details as to the extent and nature of the observations which are now made, together with the method of collection of the returns, and the manner in which such returns are utilized for the information of Government and for subsequent publication, have already been fully described, first, in the form of proposals in the Administration Report of 1882-83; and secondly, in the Administration Report of 1883-84, where a full description was given of the arrangements which had been made to carry out the wishes of the Bengal Government in this matter.

During the year there has been no change or addition to the number of the regularly constituted observatories in Bengal and Assam of the second and third classes. There was only an addition of one observatory to the list of provincial third class stations, viz., Bogra, which was started from the 2nd December 1884. The total number of stations thus reporting to the Bengal Meteorological office during the year were one first class (Alipore observatory), seven second class, fifteen third class, and twenty-three provincial third class observatories.

Sanction was given to the establishment of observatories at three other stations during the year, viz., one at Tezpore in Assam, which is to be an imperial third class observatory, and two other provincial third class stations at Krishnagore and Maldah in Bengal. But owing to difficulties in the selection of suitable sites for the observatories and to other delays, they could not be started within the official year. In the case of Tezpore and Krishnagore, Mr. Eliot found it necessary personally to visit the stations for the selection of the sites for the respective observatories. The Magistrate of Bankoora (Mr. Anderson) proposed to start a voluntary observatory at his station, which would furnish observations for the Bengal daily weather report, and sanction was given to this proposal by the Meteorological Reporter to the Government of India in August 1884. A shed was provided by this Department, and it is hoped that the observations which will be received, will be useful to give indications of the weather over a large area which is practically now unrepresented by any regular station, except distantly by Raneegunge.

Second class observatories.—These are seven in number. Five are in Bengal and the remaining two in Assam. The names of the superintendents and observers at these stations are given in the following table:—

Five of these observatories are provided with self-registering anemographs. The anemographs at Dhubri, Hazaribagh, and Cuttack are of the Casella pattern, which record the wind direction and amount at intervals of one hour. The remaining two stations, Saugor Island and Chittagong, are provided with Beckley's anemographs, which register wind direction and amount continuously. There were very few breaks exceeding 24 hours in the working of these self-recording instruments, and in the majority of instances the cause of them has been the necessity for cleaning and repairing the instruments, and there have been extremely few stoppages which could possibly have been avoided.

Two of these observatories were visited during the year, viz. Hazaribagh and Cuttack, by my head clerk, who reported as follows:—

"The Hazaribagh observatory was inspected on the 26th October 1884. No change has been made in the position and exposure of the instruments since the last inspection of the observatory by Mr. Eliot in December 1882. The observer was punctual in taking the observations, and, generally speaking the condition of the observatory was fair, but there were some defects which call for notice.

"The anemograph was found to work smoothly, but the chain connecting the wind-vane to the recording part of the instrument was found to have lengthened slightly, and failed to secure a good hold of the cog-wheels for fixing the direction indicator on the dial of the instrument. One link was therefore taken off the chain to remove the defect, and the instrument worked more satisfactorily. The anemometer requires to be changed for a better one, as it works rather heavily.

"The pad of the grass minimum thermometer was in shreds. The grass minimum was being exposed on grass on earth. The observer should have reported these facts.

"I examined the observer and his assistant thoroughly, and found that both did well and read the instruments fairly. They make very few mistakes.

"The records of the observatory were all in confusion."

The observatory has continued to maintain a good character for correct and punctual submission of returns, but the inspection report shews that though in fair working order, it was scarcely in such good condition as would have been the case had the observer taken a warm and intelligent interest in his work, and his personal allowance was only retained on his assurance to pay proper attention to his duties.

Cuttack observatory "was inspected on the 3rd February 1885. No change of importance has been made in the position of the shed or in the arrangement of the instruments since Mr. Eliot's inspection in January 1883. The thermometer shed required repairs. The instruments were clean and in very satisfactory condition. The observatory continues to maintain its high character and is thoroughly satisfactory in its equipment and accurate and valuable in its observations. Mr. Alley, the observer, and his assistant, were examined, and both acquitted themselves well, and were correct and quick in their observations." The observatory has been provided with a lightning conductor at the expense of the Meteorological Department for the protection of the wind instruments.

The Dhubri observatory shed was destroyed by fire on the 6th April 1884. Complete observations had therefore to be suspended from that time to the first week of November 1884, when a new shed was built and the observations resumed. Incomplete observations, however, were telegraphed to the Meteorological Reporter to the Government of India, giving the barometer readings and the wind and rain observations for the purposes of the India weather reports. Observer Maniruddin Ahmed, who was a recipient of a ten-rupee special allowance, was granted sick leave for six months from 6th May 1884, and as the full set of observations had to be suspended, it was not found necessary to arrange for another head observer, but the assistant observer carried on the partial observations necessary. Observer Maniruddin Ahmed died on the 2nd November 1884, and Kadimuddin Ahmed was appointed in his place on probation.

The rest of the observatories of the second class continued to furnish very satisfactory returns throughout the year. There have been very few breakages of the instruments in these stations. In some, however, old instruments have had to be replaced either for defect or for their being worn out by long use. At Cuttack the sun radiation thermometer was broken by a sudden hailstorm while under exposure. Owing to the breakage of this instrument, which had been always exposed on forked sticks according to the old plan, it was considered desirable, when a new instrument was supplied in May 1884, to bring its conditions of exposure into conformity with the standard regulations in the vade-mecum by providing the observatory with the usual stand for the exposure of the sun thermometers.

The readings of the Saugor Island barometer had to be rejected for the period 8th February to 15th March 1885, consequent on the instrument having become useless by leakage of the mercury from the cistern. It was replaced by a new instrument with the least possible delay.

It will thus be seen that on the whole the work at the second class stations has been very satisfactorily performed, and that it has been fully equal to that of former years. The returns have been punctually submitted, and there have been few, if any, causes of complaint in the working of these stations.

Imperial third class observatories.—These are fifteen in number. Ten are situated in Bengal, one Akyab in Burma, two Silchar and Tura (voluntary observatory) in Assam, and two Gopalpore and Coconada in Madras. The two last are maintained in connection with the Bay of Bengal storm signal service.

* Received a special allowance of Rs 10 a month for meritorious service.

Of the third class observatories very few required inspection. Five stations only were visited during the year—Darjeeling, Durbhanga, and Jessore by Mr. Eliot, and Gya and False Point by my head clerk.

The Casella anemograph provided in 1882 for the Darjeeling observatory having failed to give workable anemograms, particularly during the cold weather months, notwithstanding that the observer Mr. Moore and the Superintendent Mr. Carter, had devoted much time and skill in endeavouring to make the instrument work satisfactorily, Mr. Eliot thought it desirable to personally inspect its working at a period when it usually gave bad results, and he therefore visited the station in November 1884, and after a careful examination of the instrument recorded his opinion that it would never work satisfactorily, and he desired that it should be dismounted and replaced by a self-registering anemograph of Beckley's pattern. An instrument of this description was therefore put in order, and was sent up early in March, and I was able to visit the station during the latter end of March 1885, to superintend its erection and starting. The Beckley's anemograph has now been set up in a substantial manner on the roof of a small house at the summit of Mount Vernon, the elevation of which is 7,599 feet. The anemograph is in a thoroughly satisfactory position as to exposure, and the instrument is one which always yields excellent results, and under the careful supervision of Messrs. Carter and Moore it is to be expected that very valuable records will be obtained of the movements of the upper strata of the atmosphere, which will increase our knowledge of this branch of Indian meteorology in a manner hitherto unobtainable.

The Berhampore observatory under Baboo Mahendra Nath Roy and the Burdwan observatory under Baboo Mokshoda Prosad Roy Chowdhury have continued to work in a highly satisfactory manner, and these observers have well maintained their previous reputation.

The Jessore observatory having improved very materially in its condition and in the character of its observations, the observer, Baboo Paresh Nath Roy Chowdhury, has been recommended for a personal allowance of Rs. 5 per month. Hitherto the thermometers in the observatory were exposed in a wooden cage of the old pattern, but this has been replaced by a cage similar to those now used in our other observatories.

Gya observatory ceased to be furnished with radiation thermometers from 1882 by order of the Meteorological Reporter to the Government of India, as the breakages of these fragile instruments were more numerous than at other stations. I regret to have to report that there has been little or no improvement in the accuracy of the returns received from Gya. Mr. Eliot, in the Administration Report for 1883-84, hinted at the worthlessness of the minimum thermometer readings. He suspended the meteorological allowance of the Gya observer from 1st April 1884 for wrong readings of the minimum thermometer and for his not taking due precautions to find out the cause or source of the errors which had been pointed out to him more than once. A new minimum thermometer was then sent to the Gya Observatory to replace the old instrument in order to see if the defective readings were due to a bad thermometer, but the observer continued to give the readings from the indications of the old instrument. Another fresh cause of complaint was found in the readings of the anemometer. The observer was telegraphing wrong wind velocities, notwithstanding that his attention had been repeatedly called to the fact. Thereupon the office head clerk was deputed in November 1884 to investigate into the cause of these erroneous readings, and he reported that he found the minimum thermometer which had been sent had remained in store with the spirit column broken, and that no report of the fact had been ever made, nor was the instrument ever used. The Head clerk examined the old minimum thermometer and found it to be in good order, and this confirmed the belief that the observer had neglected his duties, and the wrong readings were mainly due to his want of attention to the regulations for reading the instrument. It had been the intention to take comparative readings, but this object was frustrated by the observer not bringing the new instrument into use, or reporting it as out of order, when a fresh thermometer could have been sent. The defect in the wind velocity readings was due to the observer's incorrect method of calculation in finding out the appropriate word from the code to telegraph his results. For these faults the observer was fined two months' pay. The observer, however, has since improved in his readings of the barometer, and it is hoped he will continue to furnish satisfactory readings of the rest of the instruments. If the observer fails in his duty in this respect, it will be a matter of question whether some other agency than the Civil Surgeon's clerk should not be sought for to carry on the duties of the observer.

The Akyab observatory has improved considerably in the character of its observations. The observer, however, had to be fined Rs. 10 in June 1884 for having broken a grass radiation thermometer by plunging it into warm water. He had taken this step on the supposition that it would unite the broken column of spirit in the thermometer.

Having regard to the frequent breakage of nocturnal radiation thermometers at Cachar, the issue of these fragile instruments has been prohibited by the Meteorological Reporter to the Government of India in accordance with the terms of his office circular No. 1, dated 3rd April 1882, with effect from November 1884.

Generally speaking, the returns from the rest of the observatories of the third class was satisfactory. The following are the reports of inspection of some of the observatories. Of the five observatories inspected, three, viz. Darjeeling, Jessore, and Durbhanga, were visited by the Reporter, and two, viz. Gya and False Point, by my head clerk.

Darjeeling was visited on the 28th November 1884. The barometer and thermometers were all in good order, except the dry minimum, in which a small portion of the column was detached. Instructions were given as to the method to remedy this permanently, but if the defect continues, it would be desirable to supply another instrument.

"The anemograph was examined. I am of opinion that it will not work satisfactorily. Mr. Moore has spent much time in endeavouring to obtain workable anemograms. The wind direction stamp does not come down with sufficient force to give a clear impression. During the cold weather months of the year the amount of wind is so small as to be unable to move the wind-vane. The friction is much larger than that of small anemometers. As the position of the anemograph shed is well exposed, I think it would be advisable to supply a Beckley's instrument, and ascertain if good results could not be obtained by means of the continuous registration which it would effect."

Jessore observatory was inspected on the 2nd December 1884. The barometer was in good order. The thermometer shed is not in a very satisfactory position, being much shut in. The instruments are all in good order. A slight encrustation was found on the wet bulb thermometer, and the observer was instructed to remove it in future. The solar radiation thermometer has a small portion of mercury lodging at the extreme end of the tube, which the observer allows for in his readings (adding 1·2°). The wind-vane and anemometer were in good order. The latter was on a shaky wooden pillar which was ordered to be replaced by a brick pillar of same height.

The observer took the readings of the instruments readily and correctly. As his observations have been found to be very satisfactory, the observer has been recommended for Rs. 5 special allowance.

Durbhunga observatory was inspected on the 8th October 1884. It was found to be in much better condition than on any of my previous visits. The thermometers were clean and in good order. The anemometer was found to be working satisfactorily. The wind-vane is a very heavy one, and should be replaced by a lighter one.

Gya observatory was inspected on the 21st October 1884. The barometer was in the same position, as on last inspection and perfectly clean. The observer read the instrument correctly.

The shed thermometers were found to be perfectly clean. The graduations on the maximum and the wet minimum thermometers were obliterated.

The anemometer was found to be perfectly clean and in good condition, but it required to be fixed firmly on to the wooden platform.

The thermometer cage was shaky and required to be made firm, as there was likelihood of the readings being disturbed by a gust of wind.

The thatching of the shed was good, but some of the posts have been eaten up badly by white ants, and may with advantage be replaced.

False Point observatory was inspected on the 14th February 1885. It is situated on an open maidan outside the Light-house compound. The thermometer shed is enclosed by a fence of lattice work. The radiation thermometers are exposed within the enclosure on their proper stands. The observatory required thorough repairs. The fencing and the posts require to be looked after much oftener to prevent the white ants from causing injury. All the wood-work should be completely tarred.

The barometer was in the same position as on last inspection. The instrument was in perfect order and clean. It was quite vertical.

The cage instruments were all in good order and perfectly clean. The observer reported to me that the grass thermometer gave him much trouble as the spirit column was found to break very often. I found on inspection that a part of the spirit about 2" in length remained lodged at about an inch and a half from the top end of the tube, and the instructions in the vade-mecum failed to unite it with the main column. This instrument should be changed.

The sun thermometer was found to have a break in the mercury column below the index. The instrument is of the Phillip's principle. The break was not noticed by the observer, but was set right again with slight effort. The separation was but little.

The anemometer is placed on a pillar 20 feet high. The instrument worked well, but apparently with friction.

The rain gauge was in good order.

During my visit the observer, Mr. Workman, was ill, and so I had to inspect the observatory with his assistant, who also takes the readings. Mr. London read the instruments quickly and correctly.

The observatory, generally speaking, appeared to be one of the best kept stations in Bengal, and its neat condition testifies to the amount of interest and care taken by the observer in his work.

It may therefore be stated that the majority of these third class observatories are satisfactory in character, and the observations which have been received from them have on the whole been very reliable.

* Commenced from 1st December 1884.

These stations have on the whole done satisfactory work, and the readings which have been recorded and submitted to the office have been generally reliable. Of course instances have occasionally happened of wrong readings due to carelessness, but the proportion of them has been comparatively small, and they have been, as a rule, readily detected. Instances of incorrect readings having been submitted as the result of ignorance of the correct methods of reading the meteorological instruments have also occurred, but they have not been common, and so far as has been possible, when instances of such errors have been detected, every endeavour has been made either by a visit of inspection or by correspondence to correct the errors and to prevent them from occurring in future.

Of the provincial third class observatories, eleven have been inspected. Two of them, Julpigoree and Dinagepore, were inspected by Mr. Eliot; two, Ranigunge and Arrah, by myself, and the rest, Balasore, Rampore Beauleah, Dinagepore, Rungpore, Julpigoree, Bogra, Ranchee, and Chyebassa, by my head clerk. It must also here be noticed that among the observatories visited by the head clerk are Balasore, Ranchee, Chyebassa, and Bogra, which have hitherto never been inspected. The inspection reports for the provincial third class observatories, it will be seen, indicate that they are kept in fairly good condition by the observers.

Balasore was visited on the 20th January 1885. The town lies about seven miles from the sea coast in a straight line, and about eight or ten miles to the east of a range of the Mourbhanj hills.

The site of the observatory is fairly open. To the north at a distance of 41 feet from the shed there is a tope of seven mango trees. To the north-east, at a distance of 60 feet, is the Executive Engineer's office building. The east, west, and south are almost perfectly open.

The shed is well built of the standard pattern, and the instruments in the cage well set according to the vade-mecum instructions.

The barometer is placed in the office of the Executive Engineer. The position for the instrument is not very favourable being on a wall in a narrow passage leading to the Executive Engineer's room, and it is, therefore, very liable to be disturbed by people passing. The barometer was found perfectly clean, and the observer appeared to read the instrument quickly and fairly correctly.

The thermometers were perfectly clean, except that there was a slight encrustation on the wet bulb. The observer was taught how to keep the instrument free of deposit in future.

The raingauge in use here is an eight-inch one and is well set and exposed. It was in good condition and perfectly level.

The anemometer and wind-vane were found to work well and were in good order. They are well placed. The wind-vane arrangement is excellent. Mr. Apjohn, the Executive Engineer, made his own arrangement for the wind-vane on the terrace of his office building, and which is not only very simple but very effective.

The observer could not read the anemometer correctly. Hitherto the indications of the fixed pointer on the inner circle of the dial were neglected, and only distances above five miles registered. The observer has been taught to read the instrument correctly in future.

The Executive Engineer appears to take every possible interest in the observatory, and its neat condition, punctual submission of returns, and the excellent condition of all the instruments speak very highly of the Superintendent in charge.

Rampore Beauleah was visited on the 20th December 1884. The observatory instruments were found to be clean and in good order.

The barometer has been removed from its old position to a wall in the sitting room of the Executive Engineer. This change did not affect the height of the cistern of the instrument above sea-level. The instrument was in good order and perfectly clean. When I examined the observer, who is the head clerk of the Executive Engineer, in this instrument, he appeared to set the vernier about ·02 inch below the mercury meniscus.

The thermometer cage was incorrectly fixed, and it has since been altered. The ventilating pipe was found displaced and the aperture closed. This has been repaired. The hygrometers were in good order.

The wind-vane and anemometer were found to work well and smoothly. They were quite clean.

Generally speaking, the observatory is in fair condition and quite neat. The observatory requires little repairs.

Ranigunge observatory was visited on Friday, the 16th January 1885.

The observatory was found to be in good order, and the observer and his assistant were examined, and were found well up to their work.

The Ranigunge barometer was compared with a standard taken up from Calcutta, and the error was found to be practically unaltered. The office records were in good order.

Dinagepore observatory was inspected on the 17th July 1884. The instruments in the observatory were examined.

The barometer was not in vertical position, and as it had for some time been giving doubtful readings, the instrument was changed for a new one.

The shade thermometers were in perfect order, with the exception of the minimum thermometer. On my arrival at Dinagepore the observer reported the fact that the spirit column was not entire, but the instrument was made right by following the usual directions.

The other instruments were in good order. The wind-vane and the anemometer worked well, and were found to be oiled and free from dust.

The raingauge is in perfect condition. The observer, Baboo Behari Lal Banerjee, continues to maintain accuracy in his readings of the instruments, and to take active interest in the observatory, the condition of which does credit to him.

Rungpore observatory was inspected on the 19th and 20th July 1884.

The instruments were examined. The reported defect of the barometer was carefully examined, and as it appeared to give imperfect readings it was changed. The position of the instrument is not very safe, being on the way leading to the Collector's office and court-rooms. I propose therefore that the corner in which the instrument has been set up should be fenced in by wire netting on a wooden framework with a door which should remain closed against outsiders.

The shade thermometers are all in working order. The bulb of the wet thermometer was found to be encrusted. The observer was taught how to remove the deposit and keep the instrument clean in future. The observer when asked to read the thermometers read them by the whole numbers, and not to the nearest tenths.

The wind-vane and anemometer are in the same position as on last inspection, and appeared to work very well, and were found to be in perfect order. The wind instruments were correctly read.

The raingauge is in good condition, but the fencing round it requires renewal.

The observer reads the barometer carefully and well. The Assistant Engineer continues to take equal interest in the observatory as heretofore.

Julpigoree observatory was inspected on the 21st July 1884.

The barometer is in the same position as on the last inspection. The instrument was found to be in perfect working order, but its setting was not vertical, and it has since been placed in a vertical position. The observer read the barometer in a very unsatisfactory manner.

The shade instruments are in good order, with the exception of the wet bulb hygrometer, the bulb of which was found to have a thickish coat of encrustation. The observer was instructed in the method of keeping the instrument free from the deposit.

The wind-vane and the anemometer were found to work well and to be in good condition.

It is hoped that the observer will in future get on well under the direct superintendence of the Executive Engineer of the division, who takes the greatest interest in the good working of the observatory.

Bogra observatory was inspected on the 16th December 1884. The observatory is situated in the circuit-house compound on a fairly open site. The north is perfectly open, as also the east and west. To the south there is a garden full of mango and other fruit trees, but at a sufficient distance not to affect the exposure of the instruments. The zillah school compound is contiguous to the observatory, and special care should always be taken to prevent the boys from interfering with the instruments.

The shed is very strongly built, but of extensive dimensions, differing from those given in the vade-mecum. It is not of the standard pattern, but is of an oblong shape, and well surrounded by a bamboo fence. The barometer is placed in a room in the circuit-house with the previous permission of the District Magistrate. I had the barometer put up. The thermometers in the cage were well exposed and perfectly clean.

The anemometer and wind-vane have been placed on pillars on the roof parapet of the circuit-house, where they are very freely exposed, having no trees or larger buildings to obstruct the free air motion. The wind-vane was found to be wrongly set and the pointer was so fixed as to shew the direction opposite to the wind movement. This has been remedied. The anemometer required oiling.

The mouth of the rain-gauge was not level, but this has since been attended to.

The observer, who is the clerk of the Civil Surgeon, received instructions for reading the instruments from the Alipore observatory, and while under examination he conducted himself well and took the readings readily and correctly.

Generally speaking, the neat condition of the observatory does credit to the officer in charge, who is untiring in his efforts to secure perfect registration of the instruments

Arrah observatory was inspected on the 4th January 1885.

The thermometor shed is of the standard pattern, and was in fairly good repair. The thermometers and cage were not so clean as they should have been, and the observer was instructed to dust and clean them once a week at least. The muslin on the wet bulb thermometer was rather too thick, and owing to well-water being used, there was a slight encrustation on the bulb, which was removed as far as possible.

The barometer was in an excellent position and very clean, but it was not truly perpendicular. This was rectified. The readings of the barometer were compared with a standard taken from Calcutta, and the error of the instrument was found to be unaltered.

The wind-vane has been so erected that there is no access to it, and it has not been oiled and cleaned since it was put up. The readings were proved to be actually valueless. The wind vane should be taken down from its present position, and erected in such a position that the instrument can be cleaned, oiled, &c., at the same time as the anemometer is attended to.

The anemometer was clean, but it was sadly in want of oil, and the wind velocities reported lately are clearly below the true velocities. The observer was asked to oil the instrument regularly once a week. The observer reads the barometer very well, but can only read the thermometers to full degrees.

Ranchee.—The civil station of Lohardugga is situated on the high central plateau of the district which is undulating with heights ranging from 800 feet to 3,600 feet above sea-level. The highest part of the plateau lies about 8 miles south-west of the station of Ranchee, where the ground is about 2,500 feet above the sea. On the south the hills run east and west, and on the north the plateau abruptly falls to the valley of the Damodar river, about 16 to 18 miles off the station.

The observatory was inspected on the 30th and 31st October 1884. It is situated in an open field close to the circuit-house, the jail, and the Revenue and Public Works offices.

To the west of the shed at a distance of about 20 feet is a public main road. Further west at a distance of about 300 feet are the circuit-house and the dâk bungalow, and further off from the building at a distance of about 100 to 150 feet to the west and north-west there are four big trees with spreading branches, which overtop the building on those sides. The north is perfectly open for some miles, but bordered with a range of hills at a distance.

The barometer is kept in the Executive Engineer's office room at a distance of about 400 yards from the shed. It was clean and well placed and quite vertical. The level of the instrument has been determined from the nearest bench mark.

The thermometer shed is well built of the standard pattern and well enclosed by a wooden fence. The shed required repairs. The thermometers are freely exposed inside the cage, and were found to be in good order. The bulb of the wet hygrometer was quite clean, but the muslin was set rather loosely.

The raingauge is placed a few yards off from the shed, and well enclosed by a fence which requires partial repairs. The gauge was found quite clean and perfectly level.

The anemometer and wind-vane were kept in store since receipt, as some misconception existed in the mind of the Executive Engineer as to the selection of a proper site for the instruments. The question had been previously referred to this office, but it was kept in abeyance, pending a visit to the station.

Considering the surroundings, I am of opinion that these wind instruments should be set up on poles or brick pillars in the open field, where the observatory is situated. This will secure a free exposure for the instruments from winds from almost all sides. The observer and the Executive Engineer have been asked to submit estimates of the cost of both wooden staging and brick pillars for the anemometer.

The Public Works Department overseer, who was in charge of the readings, was examined in the presence of the Executive Engineer. He was found to read the barometer a hundredth too high, due to wrong adjustment of the vernier, a result of weak eyesight. A lens should be supplied for this station.

Chyebassa observatory was inspected on the 5th and 6th November 1884. The central portion of the Singbhoom district is occupied by a long undulating tract of country running east and west, and enclosed by great hill ranges which block the view on every side. Directly north of the station of Chyebassa, at a distance of about fourteen miles, stands the range of Chaitanpore Ghâts, which attain an elevation of about 2,500 feet; 12 miles to the south-west of the district is a series of hills without any general name, which rise to a height of 3,500 feet.

The observatory is situated in the kutchery compound, a place not so well suited for an observatory, but it was the only available ground belonging to Government where it could be started. The compound is full of trees on all sides. The east is fairly open, the west is not free for wind circulation from the existence of several big trees, the north is blocked by the range of kutchery buildings (20 feet in height) and trees, and to the south there is a small hillock and a line of trees.

The thermometer shed is well built and of the standard pattern. It is well enclosed by a strong wooden fence. The thatching of the shed requires repair.

The barometer is kept in a room in the zillah school compound at a short distance from the shed. It was in good condition and in vertical position. The height of the cistern of the instrument above sea-level has not yet been ascertained for want of a datum level.

The shade thermometers were all in good order, with the exception of the maximum thermometer, which has ceased to be a self-registering instrument The readings hitherto taken are evidently erroneous, and a new thermometer should be supplied to the station.

The rain-gauge is placed very near the shed, and within the fence. It is therefore in a very bad position. It should be removed further off to a spot pointed out to the observer and Dr. Manook. It is in good condition.

The anemometer and wind-vane are placed on the top of the shed by means of a four feet wooden post fixed on to the ridge. They are therefore very badly placed, and should be removed to a spot within the compound pointed out to the observer, and be set up by means of wooden posts and a platform. The place is all full with trees, and so perfect registration is impossible. The Deputy Commissioner objects to allow the wind-vane and anemometer being placed on the top of the kutchery.

The instruments generally are well looked after. The neat condition of of the observatory reflects much credit in the officer in charge and the observer.

Julpigoree observatory was inspected a second time on the 26th November 1884.

The observer read the instruments better than on my previous visit, although he still appears to have some hesitation in reading them.

The main object of visiting the observatory was to ascertain the cause of some very low readings of the minimum thermometer, which were found to be due to the readings of the lower instead of the upper end of the index having been taken by mistake. The observer was ill at the time, and the readings were taken by a friend.

Dinagepore observatory was inspected on the 26th November 1884. A brief comparison was made between the barometer and a secondary standard taken from Calcutta. Its correction (+·009) was found to be unchanged. The observer read the instruments correctly. The thermometers were all in very good order and quite clean. The shed is in perfect order. The wind-vane and anemometer are placed in a fairly satisfactory position on the roof of the Collector's kutchery, and were clean and in good order.

The observer appears to take the observations carefully and accurately, and the observatory is in a satisfactory condition.

Rain-recording stations.—There has again been an increase in the number of rain-recording stations during the past year. The number of these stations during the past three years has been in 1882-83, 162, in 1883-84 it was 167, and in 1884-85 it was 172. This increase is due to the establishment of the following rain-fall stations in the Bancoora district:—

Indus, Kotulpore, Onda, Gangajalghatty, and Sonamukhi.

One station, however, viz., Lalgola in the Moorshedabad district, has been suppressed at the latter end of March 1885, consequent on the abolition of the Government charitable dispensary, the rain-gauge having been in charge of the Assistant Surgeon. Efforts will, however, be made to re-establish it.

During the past year prominent attention was called to the fact that some parts of the province were very inadequately represented by rainfall recording stations, and that Chutia Nagpur in particular only possessed 11 raingauges to represent no less than 26,966 square miles of country. To supplement the present registration system, and to extend the registration into districts which have hitherto been unrepresented, has been an urgent want of the department, and therefore during the last part of the year a scheme was drawn up, providing for no less than 72 additional rain-recording stations at an almost nominal cost to Government. The cost of nearly all the raingauges was met from the savings of this year's budget, and the annual cost will be simply the cost of the postage of the returns. With this extension, the system of registration will be fairly complete, and all parts of the province will be well represented. At the close of the official year the scheme was submitted to Government for sanction.

The returns from the great majority of the old recording stations were received punctually and regularly, and so far as can be judged the registration of the rainfall is effected with fair accuracy and with considerable punctuality.

Instruments.—The following tables show the number of instruments that have been broken or lost or rendered unserviceable during the year 1884-85 at the Imperial and Provincial observatories, and of the instruments supplied to them during the year. These tables shew that the observers on the whole take great care in the use of the instruments committed to their charge, and the record may be looked upon as fairly satisfactory.

Office establishment.—The office establishment on the 31st March 1885 consisted of the following clerks :—

Baboo	Chandi Charan Chatterjee,	Head clerk.
,,	Purna Chandra Mukerjee,	2nd ,,
,,	Nibarun Chandra Chatterjee,	3rd ,,
,,	Kamini Mohan Bose,	Tabulator.
,,	Debendra Nath Banerjee,	,,
,,	Joggeswar Roy,	,,
,,	Bireswar Mookerjee,	,,
,,	Jati Lal De,	,,
,,	Rakhal Das Chackerbutty,	,,
,,	Ashutosh Roy Chowdhuri,	,,
,,	Hem Chandra Goswami,	,,
,,	Haridas Mazumdar,	,,
,,	Nagendra Nath Paul,	Draughtsman.

The clerks generally have worked extremely well in dealing with the large amount of correspondence, and in the reduction and tabulation of the large number of observations now received, and with the preparation of reports which are required under the present system. The following are the regular reports and maps which are issued by the office :—

(a) The Bengal daily weather report, from about 15th May to the 7th of November, and the Bay of Bengal weather report, throughout the year.

(b) The weekly and monthly meteorological and rainfall reports for the province published in the Calcutta Gazette.

(c) Four sets of three rainfall charts monthly during the south-west monsoon period, 1884 i.e., from May to November), showing by colours—

(1) The actual distribution of rainfall for the same month.

(2) The variation of the actual from the average rainfall, indicating whether it was in excess or in defect, and the amount of such excess or defect.

(3) The variation of the actual from the average expressed as a percentage of the normal fall.

The four sets were all drawn and coloured by hand. One set was forwarded about the 8th of the succeeding month (to that to which it referred) to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor ; a second set to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal in the Revenue Department ; a third to the Sanitary Commissioner ; and the fourth was kept for office reference.

(d) Sets of tables giving the average and actual rainfall, and the difference between the actual and average rainfall (or variation) for each month of the year 1884, and for the whole year at 170 rainfall recording stations. These returns were published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 4th February 1885.

In addition to these a series of special returns and a series of special maps were prepared illustrating the distribution of the rains in Bengal during the south-west monsoon period of 1884, i.e., from 15th May to 15th November. A short account of the distribution of the rains was also prepared. These were submitted to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal in the Revenue Department, and the special returns together with the meteorological summary of the rains were published with the resolution of Government dealing with the agricultural condition and prospects of the crops which appeared in the Gazette of the 19th November 1884.

These various reports necessarily entail a large amount of continuous and rapid work on the part of the office, and I have to place on record my appreciation of the zealous and intelligent manner in which the head clerk, Baboo Chandi Charan Chatterjee, has supervised the work of the office, and has also performed the work of inspection. Baboo Kamini Mohan Bose, who is in charge of the rainfall statistics, and Baboo Debendra Nath Banerjee, who is in charge of the daily reports, have also done excellent service during the past year, and have maintained their reputation as hardworking and assiduous clerks. The clerks generally have worked most satisfactorily, and have thus enabled the returns to be published punctually and without a break throughout the year.

Storm Signals.—No very severe cyclone was generated in the Bay of Bengal during the year 1884, but a number of small cyclonic storms occurred during the south-west monsoon period. As usual these small storms gave rise to strong winds and rough seas where they were generated over the Bay, and they brought heavy rainfall in their advance inland. These storms have all been noticed, and their history briefly traced in the usual meteorological monthly summaries published in the Calcutta Gazette. Two small storms of this description were generated in June, both of which crossed the Balasore coast. In July six small storms were formed, five of which were generated over the sea, and of which three crossed the Balasore coast and two the Orissa coast between False Point and Gopalpore, while the sixth storm was generated over the land area apparently in the Jessore district. In August two small cyclonic storms were generated, the first of which crossed the Balasore coast, and the second the Ganjam coast near Gopalpore. In September four depressions were formed, two over the land area and two over the sea, of which one crossed the coast near Chandbali, and the second between Gopalpore and Vizagapatam. In October two depressions were formed, one of which formed over the land, and the second, which was a large and shallow depression, formed in the centre of the Bay and advanced up the Bay in a northerly direction into Bengal, giving very heavy rain in its progress. Most of these storms, however, were of comparatively small intensity, and it was not thought necessary to hoist the storm signals except on two occasions, the first being on June 19th, and the second on July 10th. The signal which was hoisted on each occasion was the same, and signified that a small cyclonic storm would pass between False Point and Saugor Island, and the signals remained hoisted for about 24 hours for each storm, and with their passage inland the signals were lowered.

Daily Weather Reports.—The new form of the Bay of Bengal weather reports of the storm signal service has been continued this year with but slight modification. The reports were issued in blue and black instead of entirely in black, and advantage was taken of the establishment of an observatory at Midnapore and direct telegraphic connection with Jessore to add two more stations to the number of the stations sending observations for this report. The report, last year, furnished observations taken at 19 stations against 17 in 1883-84. An observatory has also been established at Burrisal, and the observations from this station will form a valuable addition to the existing number of stations on or near the coast of the Bay which furnish observations for the report. This report was supplied to 27 subscribers and 37 Government officials at the end of the year. The receipts for subscriptions during the year covered the cost of printing and distributing the reports. There was a small balance of Rs. 65-13-6 at the end of the year 1884-85, which was kept in hand in order to meet any repairs to the lithographic presses. The cost of printing the bi-color reports increased the expenditure on printing, and rather decreased the balance in hand during the year, but through the kind courtesy of Major Waterhouse the blue report forms are now being supplied to this Department from the Lithographic Branch of the Survey Department. Warm thanks are thus due to the Survey Department for assisting in the publication of these reports with neatness and despatch. The reports were published throughout the year without the break of a single day.

The Bengal daily weather reports which were commenced in 1883 were published last year during the period May 16th to November 7th, 1884. The number of stations which furnished observations for this report during the year was 32, which is one in excess of the last year. These reports were published and issued by the Bengal Secretariat Press, and were supplied to 102 Government officials and to three subscribers. It appears, however, that the report is now appreciated by the mercantile community and by the general public, and it is hoped that the number of subscribers to the report will increase with each succeeding year. That such will be the case is probable from the fact that with the commencement of the 1885-86 reports no less than 15 new subscribers have registered their names. A little more practical value would probably be given to these Bengal weather reports, if the observations of the Assam stations could be included in them, and the meteorological condition of Assam and Bengal be discussed together in the review of the weather conditions daily, weekly, and monthly. But there are difficulties in the way of providing funds for the extra cost for the telegrams, &c., which may be necessary to give effect to these suggestions, and it is likely that the question may commend itself to the Assam Government for their consideration hereafter.

Copies of the weekly and monthly meteorological and rainfall returns (as published in the Gazette) were struck off for the convenience of the public, and were supplied at a charge just sufficient to cover the actual expense of printing and distribution.

Marine Meteorology.—The working of this department for the year remained entirely in the hands of Mr. W. L. Dallas, the scientific assistant to the Meteorological Reporter to the Government of India, so that no details can be given in the Bengal Administration Report as to the amount of work done and progress made in this branch of meteorological research. The returns sent in to the Indian Meteorological Office are, however, placed at the disposal of the Bengal Reporter, and the information has proved of much value in the preparation of special reports and accounts of various storms, the formation and history of which have been worked out by Mr. Eliot, and accounts of which have been published from time to time.

During the year an exceedingly valuable memoir was drawn up by Mr. Eliot on the south-west monsoon storms generated in the Bay of Bengal during the years 1877 to 1881, which has since been published as Volume II, Part IV of the Indian Meteorological Memoirs. Mr. Eliot also drew up an account of the south-west monsoon storms of the 26th of June to 11th of July and of 10th to 15th November 1883. This paper was published in the Journal of the Asiatic Society of Bengal, Volume 53, Part II. A third valuable paper was also drawn up by Mr. Eliot on the cyclone which passed inland near Akyab on the 17th of May 1884, but up to the present time this paper has not been published.

Expenditure.—The following statement gives the expenditure on account of the Bengal Meteorological Department during the year 1884-85, and the total grants sanctioned by Government under each of the various heads :—

The expenditure of the department for the year 1884-85 has been considerably greater than in the year 1883-84, but this has been due to the fact that in the previous year, owing to unavoidable difficulties in starting the new scheme of provincial observatories, many of these did not commence work until the middle of June or beginning of July. The expenditure on observers' allowances, weather telegrams, &c., during the year 1883-84 therefore fell considerably short of the amounts which have been expended on these items during 1884-85, for the system has been practically in full working order during the whole of the year under review. The expenditure in the year 1884-85 has been Rs. 6,216-15-3 in excess of that of the previous year, and the main items of increased expenditure are those above alluded to. The expenditure has, however, been no less than Rs. 4,563-4-1 below the sanctioned budget grant for the year, but almost the whole of this difference is accounted for under the head of telegraphic messages or weather telegrams, and it will be noticed in the above statement that, with the exception of this item and that of postage, all other heads of expenditure are almost, if not quite, equal to the budget grants, notwithstanding that every endeavour has been made to keep the expenditure as small as possible. The expenditure on office rent has been rather larger than in previous years, but this is accounted for by the fact that in August last the office was removed into a larger house, and very much superior accommodation has been secured. The amounts under the two heads of expenditure in which savings are shown would not have been so large if it were not that there had been delay in opening of one or two of the observatories, but with the full number of observatories which are now open, and with the extension of the rainfall registration which has been recently proposed, the margin for possible future savings in the budget grant of the department will be reduced to a very small figure.

The figures in the statement printed above give the total expenditure for the year as shown in the books of this office, but the statement does not include the cost of instruments supplied to the observatories by the Indian Meteorological Department, nor the cost of stationery supplied to the central office, nor the cost of printing the meteorological returns in the Gazette or otherwise, or of the forms required in the Meteorological Office, by the Bengal Secretariat Press.

CALCUTTA, the 27th July 1885.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 24TH OF JULY 1885.

On the last day of the previous week an exceedingly feeble barometric depression had formed over the Sunderbuns, and its centre was a little distance to the south-east of Calcutta. During that day and the following night the small storm moved in a westerly direction, growing more feeble in its advance, and it was of such slight intensity that on the Saturday it had almost disappeared as a decided barometric depression, though it still existed in the west of South-West Bengal, and the tendency towards cyclonic circulation of winds round it was distinctly noticeable. On Sunday, the 19th, pressure which had been previously falling generally in Bengal continued to fall at the south-western stations, while it increased elsewhere, so that the area of low pressure which existed in this locality as the last indication of the small storm was intensified, and West and South-West Bengal formed a distinct area of low pressure on this day. The winds blowing at the western stations in Bengal on the 19th were distinctly abnormal, and they were undoubtedly influenced by the area of low pressure just noticed. On this day also the reports received from the coast stations of the Bay of Bengal showed clearly that a rather strong advance of the monsoon current was taking place over the Bay. On Saturday and Sunday the rainfall over the greater part of Bengal was light, and in many districts rather local, but with the stronger advance of the Bay of Bengal monsoon current, rainfall became heavier and more general on Monday and Tuesday, the 20th and 21st. On the latter date the whole of the Province was influenced by the Bay of Bengal current alone, but on Wednesday a westerly current, due of course to the Bombay branch of the monsoon, commenced to set in at the western stations, and by the interaction of the opposing wind currents, brought moderate to heavy rain over considerable parts of Behar. The oscillations of the barometer during this period in Bengal were extremely and abnormally large, and as the result of a rapid fall of pressure at the head of the Bay, a small barometric depression or cyclonic storm was formed a short distance from the land, and on Thursday, the 23rd, at 10 A.M., its centre was a short distance to the south-east of Saugor Island. The winds, round the small depression were distinctly cyclonic in direction, but light and feeble in force, and during that day and night the depression moved in a westerly direction, and crossed the coast of Orissa apparently near Balasore, and on Friday morning the small atmospheric whirl was to the west of Balasore, so far as could be judged by the wind directions, though the lowest barometric pressure was still reported from Saugor Island. This storm was exceedingly feeble, and it brought up only moderate amounts of rain. It will thus be seen that ordinary monsoon conditions have prevailed in all districts throughout the week, and conditions have been favourable for a moderate and general rainfall over the Province, though by the partial interaction of the Bay of Bengal monsoon current with the Bombay current over parts of Behar, that district has received a rainfall rather in excess of the normal while all other districts have received rainfalls distinctly below the normal.

Pressure was during the previous week distinctly in excess of the normal, the average excess being equal to 0·03″. These conditions have been completely reversed, and the average pressure over the whole Province for the present week is 0·44″ below the normal. This diminished pressure is fairly evenly distributed, and for the meteorological districts the extremes are a defect of about 0·05″ in South-West Bengal to a defect of 0·03″ in Chutia Nagpur. The variations of pressure during the week may be shortly summed up by saying that on Friday, the 18th instant, the barometer was falling in all districts except Chutia Nagpur, the fall being largest in those districts affected by the small storm described above. On the following day pressure again fell in South-West Bengal, though it increased in other districts, and on the 20th an extremely rapid increase of pressure commenced, which lasted for two days. The increase was so rapid that in certain cases, as at Chittagong on the 20th, pressure increased by practically two-tenths of an inch within twenty-four hours, which is an extremely rapid rise for a Bengal station. The rapid increase was followed by an equally rapid fall, which culminated in the formation of the second barometric depression noticed above; and on Thursday, the 23rd, at 10 A.M., the pressure registered at Saugor Island was only 29·49″. On the last day of the week the barometric changes to a great extent followed the westward advance of the barometric depression.

Temperature changes have generally been small and variable. In the previous week temperature was very nearly normal, and the average over the whole Province showed a defect of only 0·6°. During the present week the temperature over the whole Province has become ever more nearly normal, and the variation is now only 0·30° in excess of the normal.

The variations of the wind systems have to a certain extent been followed previously. For the first two days winds in the south-western districts were influenced by the first small depression, while in other districts they were almost normal. With the disappearance of the depression a stronger monsoon current advanced over the Province, which lasted for two days, the 20th and 21st. Westerly winds began to make themselves felt in the western districts on the 22nd, and they were still perceptible on the 23rd, and during the formation of the second small cyclonic storm, but with the advance of this depression the westerly winds were driven back, and at the close of the week the Bay of Bengal current was blowing over the whole of Bengal, giving rise to winds of nearly normal direction and force at all stations.

The rainfall for the week has been very general, though in most cases lighter than usual. On Saturday, the 18th, when only a comparatively feeble monsoon current was blowing, general rain in moderate quantities was falling in East and North Bengal, and light and rather local rainfall in South-West Bengal, South Behar and Chutia Nagpur, though in Orissa and North Behar rainfall was very scanty. On Sunday, the 19th, the area of moderate rainfall extended to Orissa and South Behar, while to a certain extent it ceased in East Bengal, fairly general rain in light to moderate amounts being reported from other districts. With the setting in of the stronger monsoon current on the 20th and 21st, rainfall became general in all districts on these days, except in North Behar. On Wednesday, the 22nd, the monsoon current began to slacken, and rainfall became less general and lighter, but this was followed on the 23rd by the heavier rainfall in the western districts, due to the advance of the westerly winds as before described, and on this day rainfall was general and heavy in South and parts of North Behar, Chutia Nagpur and Orissa, while in the Eastern and northern districts rainfall was almost absent. The same conditions, though becoming more feeble, also obtained on the 24th. During the week some rather heavy local falls of rain have been reported, thus at Tajpore in the Durbhunga district on the 18th, 3·55 inches of rain were reported, and at the same station on the 23rd, 4·65 inches were recorded. At Bhubhuah in the Shahabad district on the 19th instant 4·65 inches were reported, and at Rajmehal on the 22nd 3·41 inches, while Barrh (Patna district) and Gya, on the 23rd, both registered more than 3 inches of rain.

Taking up the average rainfall of the respective meteorological divisions, the only district which shows a rainfall in excess of the normal is South Behar, which has received 2·61 inches against the normal 2·38 inches, which is equal to 10 per cent. in excess of the normal. Chutia Nagpur has received 2·78 inches against the normal 3·03 inches, which is 8 per cent. in defect. East Bengal has received 2·60 inches against the normal 3·47 inches or 25 per cent. in defect. The average fall in South-West Bengal has been 1·61 inches against the usual amount of 2·40 inches, which gives 33 per cent. in defect. North Behar reports an average fall of 1·59 inches against the normal 2·60 inches, which is 39 per cent. in defect. North Bengal has received 2·00 inches instead of 3·12 inches, which is 36 per cent. in defect; and finally Orissa has received 2·4 inches against the normal fall of 2·86 inches or 15 per cent. in defect. Summing up these results, it may therefore be said that the average rainfall of the whole Province for the week has been 21 per cent. in defect of the normal. The number of rainy days for the whole Province for the week has averaged 4·3, while the normal number of rainy days during the same period is 4·2. There is therefore comparatively little difference in the actual number of rainy days from the normal, and it would appear that the cause of the deficient rainfall is lightness of the rain showers rather than absence of rainy days.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the Province for the week ending Friday, the 24th of July 1885:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No 86 formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Bockley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

The above figures denote chiefly that, in comparison with the preceding week, there occurred during the week under notice considerably enhanced mortality from cholera, and a small increase of fatal results from fever and bowel-complaints.

4. That of the abovementioned death-causes, while the casualties from small-pox and violence were nowhere noticeably large, the rest of the diseases proved most fatal to life in the following Municipalities :—

Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

NOTIFICATION.

The 4th August 1885.—In exercise of the powers conferred by section 7 of the Petroleum Act, 1881, the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal is pleased, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, to make the following rules to regulate the importation of petroleum at the Port of Chittagong.

RULES.

1. (1) All words and expressions used in these rules, and defined in the Act, shall in these rules have the meanings, respectively, assigned to them by the Act.

(2) In these rules—

"Petroleum declared dangerous" means petroleum which the master of a ship has declared, under rule 2, to be dangerous petroleum.

"Certificated petroleum" means petroleum covered by a certificate granted at the port of shipment, of such description as the Local Government may, from time to time, by written order, prescribe, and to the effect that the petroleum is not dangerous petroleum.

"Uncertificated petroleum" means petroleum which the master of the ship has not declared, under rule 2, to be dangerous petroleum, and which is not covered by a certificate as aforesiad.

"Petroleum reported dangerous" means petroleum stated in a report signed by the Civil Surgeon, and deposited in the office of the Collector of Customs, to be dangerous petroleum.

"Petroleum reported not dangerous" means petroleum stated in a report as aforesaid not to be dangerous petroleum.

2. The master of every ship bound for Chittagong and carrying petroleum shall, before reaching Jooldia, declare in writing to the pilot*—

(a) what quantity of petroleum the ship is carrying;

(b) whether any and, if so, what part of it is dangerous petroleum; and

(c) whether any and, if so, what part of it is certificated petroleum.

Where the master declares that any petroleum is certificated petroleum, he shall produce to the pilot the certificates covering the same.

3. A ship having on board any petroleum declared dangerous shall not proceed upwards beyond Jooldia until that petroleum has been discharged.

4. A ship having on board any uncertificated petroleum shall not proceed upwards beyond Jooldia until that petroleum has been either discharged or reported not dangerous.

5. A ship having on board only certificated petroleum, or petroleum reported not dangerous, or both, may proceed to her moorings.

6. (1) When a ship is stopped at Jooldia under rule 4, or when a ship having on board more than 500 gallons of certificated petroleum has been allowed to proceed to her moorings under rule 5, the Collector of Customs, or one of his assistants, shall, within as short a time as possible, not exceeding 48 hours of time of the stoppage of the ship, go on board and obtain samples—in the former case, of all the uncertificated petroleum, and if there is certificated petroleum on board which amounts to more than 500 gallons, of that certificated petroleum; in the latter case, of all the petroleum on board.

(2) The master shall give to the Collector of Customs or his assistant a sample of every variety of petroleum comprised in the petroleum of which samples are to be taken under clause (1), and shall, if the Collector of Customs or his assistant so require, take those samples from the particular receptacles indicated by him.

(3) The Collector of Customs or his assistant shall forthwith seal the receptacles containing the samples, and having labelled them with the name of the ship, the name of the consignee, and such other distinguishing marks as may be necessary, shall forward them without delay to the Civil Surgeon for report; and the Civil Surgeon, having tested them, shall, without avoidable delay, and ordinarily within 24 hours of the receipt of the samples, sign a report declaring that they are or are not dangerous petroleum (as the case may be), and forward that report to the office of the Collector of Customs where it shall be deposited.

7. If the petroleum declared or reported dangerous, or both together, on board a ship exceed 40 gallons, no portion of the petroleum shall be landed unless the whole of it is covered by an import license granted under section 4 of the Act.

8. If the uncertificated petroleum on board a ship exceeds 40 gallons, no portion of it shall be landed until the Civil Surgeon's report in respect of it has been deposited in the office of the Collector of Customs as hereinbefore provided. Such report shall be so deposited without avoidable delay, and ordinarily within four days of the time when the ship conveying uncertificated petroleum is stopped at Jooldia.

9. If there is on board a ship uncertificated petroleum in respect of which the Civil Surgeon's report has not been deposited as hereinbefore provided, and also petroleum declared or reported dangerous, and the aggregate exceeds 40 gallons, no portion thereof shall be landed unless the aggregate is covered by an import license granted under section 4 of the Act.

10. If the certificated petroleum on board a ship exceeds 500 gallons, no portion of that petroleum shall be landed unless it is reported not dangerous.

11. When petroleum is landed within the port—

(1) it shall be landed only after sunrise and before sunset;

(2) it shall not be landed within municipal limits without the written permission of the Chairman of the municipality. It may be landed below municipal limits, or on the opposite bank of the river without any permission;

(3) no smoking, fire, or light of any description shall be allowed in any cargo-boat during the time that the petroleum is on board the boat.

12. When the petroleum declared or reported dangerous, or both, on board a ship amounts to more than 40 gallons, and is not covered by an import license granted under section 4 of the Act, and the master desires to proceed above Jooldia, the Commissioner may, if he thinks fit, grant to any person a license to possess that petroleum at such place, for such time, and subject to such undertaking by such person for the re-exporation of that petroleum at the expiration of that time as he thinks fit, and may, notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, permit that petroleum to be landed and delivered to that person in such manner, and subject to such conditions; as he thinks fit.

13. Nothing in the foregoing rules applies to petroleum comprised in a ship's store and manifested as such, provided it is not of unreasonably large amount. If any question arises as to whether any petroleum manifested as ship's stores is of an unreasonably large amount, the decision thereon of the Collector of Customs shall be final.

Calcutta Port Trust.

GUARANTEED DEBENTURE LOAN, 1885.

The Calcutta Port Improvement Act, V of 1870 (B.C.), and the amending Acts, and the Act to enable the Commissioners for making Improvements in the Port of Calcutta to construct Docks at Kidderpore, Act II (B C.) of 1885. Issue of seventy-five lakhs of Rupees, 4½ per cent. debentures, having a currency of not less than forty years. Interest guaranteed by the Secretary of State for India in Council until such time as the loan is repaid.

TENDERS are invited for a loan of seventy five lakhs of rupees at 4½ per cent. interest upon debentures to be issued under the provisions of Act II (B.C.) of 1885 to provide for the construction, equipment, maintenance, and management of the docks at Kidderpore, such loan having been sanctioned by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council by notification published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 22nd July 1885, Part I, page 717, the payment of interest thereon being secured by the guarantee of the Secretary of State for India in Council until such time as the loan is repaid.

The debentures will be for sums of Rs. 100 each, or multiples of Rs. 100, as may be desired, made payable to order, and carrying interest at the rate of 4½ per cent. per annum, payable half-yearly on the 1st day of January and 1st day of July at the office of the Port Commissioners upon presentation of the debentures. Twenty-five per cent. of the amount tendered for to be paid on 1st October, 25 per cent on 1st November, and the balance on 1st December 1885, into the Bank of Bengal. Any allotment may, however, be paid in full at the option of the tenderer upon receipt of letter of allotment, and interest will run on such payments from the date of the Bank's receipts. The Bank of Bengal's receipts for the payments should be forwarded to the Port Commissioners, who, upon the receipt of the acknowledgment for the final instalment, will issue the debentures for the amount allotted in such sums as the holders of the receipts may desire. Arrangements will be made, if required, to enface debentures issued under this loan for payment of interest in England by drafts on India.

Tenders in the prescribed form should be filled up and forwarded in sealed covers superscribed "Tender for Port Trust Dock Loan, 1885," to the Secretary to the Port Commissioners before noon of Wednesday, the sixteenth day of September 1885, accompanied by either Government Promissory Notes equal in value to, or a receipt from the Bank of Bengal for, 2 per cent. upon the amount of each debenture applied for.

The deposit of 2 per cent. will be returned if an allotment is not made, and it will be forfeited if an allotment after being made is not fully taken up

In case a less number of debentures is allotted than is applied for, the excess of the deposit will be applied in or towards payment of the balance due upon such number as may be allotted.

The tenders will be opened in the presence of the Port Commissioners. The minimum rate at which tenders will be accepted will be recorded under the signature of the Chairman and before the tenders are opened, but will not be made public unless some tender is rejected only because it is below the recorded minimum.

Forms of tender can be obtained on application to the Secretary to the Port Commissioners, and the form of debenture can be seen at the office of the Secretary. A separate tender must be made for each rate.

R. A. DONNITHORNE, Secretary.

If any passenger or cabin-passenger of any such passenger-ship as aforesaid, without any neglect or default of his own, finds himself within any colonial or foreign port or place other than that for which the ship was originally bound, or at which he, or the Emigration Agent, or any public officer or other person on his behalf, has contracted that he should land, it shall be lawful for the Governor of the colony, or for any person authorized by him for the purpose, or for Her Majesty's Consular Officer at the foreign port or place, as the case may be, to forward the passenger or cabin-passenger to his intended destination, unless the master of the ship, within forty-eight hours of the arrival of such passenger or cabin-passenger, gives to the Governor or Consular Officer, as the case may be, a written undertaking to forward or carry on within six weeks thereafter the passenger or cabin-passenger to his original destination, and unless the master accordingly forwards or carries him on within that period.

Expenses incurred under sections 4 and 5 to be a Crown debt.

6. (1) All expenses incurred under the last two preceding sections, or either of them, by or by the authority of a Governor or Consular Officer, or other person as therein respectively mentioned, including the cost of maintaining the passengers and cabin-passengers until forwarded to their destination, and of all necessary bedding, provisions and stores, shall become a debt to Her Majesty and Her successors from the owner, charterer and master of the ship, and shall be recoverable from them, or from any one or more of them, at the suit and for the use of Her Majesty, in like manner as in the case of other Crown debts.

(2) A certificate in the form given in the schedule hereto annexed, or as near thereto as the circumstances of the case will admit, purporting to be under the hand of any such Governor or Consular Officer (as the case may be), stating the total amount of the expenses, shall, in any suit or other proceeding for the recovery of the debt, be received in evidence without proof of the handwriting or of the official character of the Governor or Consular Officer, and shall be deemed sufficient evidence of the amount of the expenses, and that the same were duly incurred;

nor shall it be necessary to adduce on behalf of Her Majesty any other evidence in support of the claim, but judgment shall pass for the Crown, with costs of suit, unless the defendant specially pleads and duly proves that the certificate is false or fraudulent, or specially pleads and duly proves any facts showing that the expenses were not duly incurred:

Provided, nevertheless, that in no case shall any larger sum be recovered on account of the expenses than a sum equal to twice the total amount of passage-money received or due to and recoverable by or on account of the owner, charterer or master of the passenger-ship or any of them from or on account of the whole number of passengers and cabin-passengers who may have embarked in the ship; which total amount of passage-money shall be proved by the defendant if he will have the advantage of this limitation of the debt; but if any such passengers are forwarded or conveyed to their intended destination under the provisions of the last preceding section, they shall not be entitled to the return of their passage-money, or to any compensation for loss of passage.

Insurance.

7. No policy of assurance effected in respect of any passages or of any passage or compensation money by any person by this Act made liable in the events aforesaid to provide those passages or to pay that money, or in respect of any other risk under this Act, shall be deemed invalid by reason of the nature of the risk or interest sought to be covered by the policy of assurance.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Report on the Bill to amend the law relating to the carriage of passengers by sea was presented to the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 8th July, 1885 :—

We, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to amend the law relating to the carriage of passengers by sea was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

From Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, British Burma, No. 304—5M.S., dated 13th February, 1885 [Paper No. 1].
From Secretary to Government, Bengal, No. 409, dated 19th February, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 2].
From Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 486J., dated 20th February, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 3].
From Under Secretary to Government, Bombay, No. 753, dated 28th February, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 4].
From Officiating Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, No. 1018, dated 27th March, 1885 [Papers No. 5].

2. The papers contain several suggestions both by officials and by commercial bodies which might be well worthy of consideration if the question were one as to the amendment of the English Passengers Acts, but which, having regard to the conditions under which we are now proceeding, it is beyond our power to entertain.

Acting, as we are, under the 99th section of the 18 & 19 Vic., c. 119, which is recited in the preamble to the Bill, we are restricted to applying to the voyages here in question the provisions of the English Passengers Acts as they stand; and if we were to introduce any modifications in the substance of those provisions, we should in all probability fail to secure for our Act the effect referred to at the end of the preamble, namely, that its provisions "shall be enforced in all Her Majesty's possessions in like manner as the provisions" of the English Passengers Acts.

3. Thus, we have no power to adopt the suggestion of the Bengal Chamber of Commerce that we should amend section 5 of the Bill so as to compel a Colonial Governor or Consular Officer to accept an undertaking to forward passengers offered by the owner, charterer or agent of a ship. We may observe, however, that, having regard to the definition of "master" in the Passengers Acts, and to the duties of a master of a wrecked ship, the contingency of there being no master of a wrecked ship, which this amendment was intended to meet, is one likely to be of very rare occurrence.

Moreover, as the Governor or Consular Officer is not compelled to act under the section, but has a discretion in the matter, there can be little doubt that in the case put he would accept the undertaking of the owner, charterer or agent.

4. Similarly, it would be beyond our powers, even if we thought it desirable to do so, to adopt the suggestion of the Madras Chamber that a shipowner should be relieved of the liability imposed by section 6 of the Bill in cases in which the ship is prevented from completing her voyage by the act of God or the Queen's enemies.

It appears to us, however, that the risk involved is one which should be provided against by insurance; and, in order to remove all doubt as to the possibility of so providing against it we have introduced into the Bill a section (7) similar to section 55 of the Passengers Act, 1855, expressly legalizing such insurances.

5. The Government of Bombay draw attention to the want of a provision like section 14 of the Passengers Act Amendment Act, 1863, to meet the case of passengers who may be left in British India owing to their ship being wrecked before she leaves the territorial waters, or who may be brought back to British India owing to their ship being wrecked or disabled after proceeding some short distance on her voyage. We are disposed to agree in thinking some such provision desirable, but the extraordinary powers under which we are now acting are not needed for its enactment, and we think the matter could be more conveniently dealt with in our Native Passengers and Emigration Acts, where we should be free to mould the law as we think fit to suit local requirements.

6. We have, at the suggestion of Brigadier-General Blair, the Political Resident at Aden, amended section 3 (c) so as to extend the Bill to voyages to ports on the East Coast of Africa and in the Gulf of Aden.

7. We have also made such amendments as were necessary to render it clear that the Bill extends, as the English Acts do, to cabin passengers.

XLV of 1860.

(3) If any dispute arises concerning the sufficiency of the compensation to be paid under section 10, clause (d), it shall, on application for that purpose by either of the disputing parties to the District Judge within whose jurisdiction the property is situate, be determined by him.

(4) If any dispute arises as to the persons entitled to receive compensation, or as to the proportions in which the persons interested are entitled to share in it, the telegraph authority may pay into the Court of the District Judge such amount as he deems sufficient or, where all the disputing parties have in writing admitted the amount tendered to be sufficient or the amount has been determined under sub-section (3), that amount; and the District Judge, after giving notice to the parties and hearing such of them as desire to be heard, shall determine the persons entitled to receive the compensation or, as the case may be, the proportions in which the persons interested are entitled to share in it.

(5) Every determination of a dispute by a District Judge under sub-section (3) or sub-section (4) shall be final:

Provided that nothing in this sub-section shall affect the right of any person to recover by suit the whole or any part of any compensation paid by the telegraph authority, from the person who has received the same.

Removal or alteration of telegraph line or post on property other than that of a local authority.

17. (1) When, under the foregoing provisions of this Act, a telegraph line or post has been placed by the telegraph authority under, over, along, across, in or upon any property, not being property vested in or under the control or management of a local authority, and any person entitled to do so desires to deal with that property in such a manner as to render it necessary or convenient that the telegraph line or post should be removed to another part thereof or to a higher or lower level or altered in form, he may require the telegraph authority to remove or alter the line or post accordingly:

Provided that, if compensation has been paid under section 10, clause (d), he shall, when making the requisition, tender to the telegraph authority the amount requisite to defray the expense of the removal or alteration, or half of the amount paid as compensation, whichever may be the smaller sum.

(2) If the telegraph authority omits to comply with the requisition, the person making it may apply to the District Magistrate within whose jurisdiction the property is situate to order the removal or alteration.

(3) A District Magistrate receiving an application under sub-section (2) may, in his discretion, reject the same or make an order, absolutely or subject to conditions, for the removal of the telegraph line or post to any other part of the property or to a higher or lower level or for the alteration of its form; and the order so made shall be final.

Provisions applicable to all Property.

Removal of trees interrupting telegraphic communication.

18. (1) If any tree standing or lying near a telegraph line interrupts, or is likely to interrupt, telegraphic communication, a Magistrate of the first or second class may, on the application of the telegraph authority, cause the tree to be removed or dealt with in such other way as he deems fit.

(2) When disposing of an application under sub-section (1), the Magistrate shall, in the case of any tree in existence before the telegraph line was placed, award to the persons interested in the tree such compensation as he thinks reasonable, and the award shall be final.

Telegraph lines and posts placed before the passing of this Act.

19. Every telegraph line or post placed before the passing of this Act under, over, along, across, in or upon any property, for the purposes of a telegraph established or maintained by the Government, shall be deemed to have been placed in exercise of the powers conferred by, and after observance of all the requirements of, this Act.

THE following Report on the Bill to facilitate the construction of Telegraphs, and to amend the Indian Telegraph Act, 1876, was presented to the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 8th July, 1885 :—

We, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to facilitate the construction of Telegraphs, and to amend the Indian Telegraph Act, 1876, was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

From Secretary for Berar to Resident, Hyderabad, No. 3596., dated 9th October, 1884 [Paper No. 7].

From Secretary to Government, Bengal, No. 1461T.—R., dated 23rd October, 1884, and enclosures [Papers No. 12].
Extract, paragraph III, from Proceedings of the Meerut Association, No. 13, dated 16th November, 1884 [Paper No. 13].
Telegram from Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, dated 13th December, 1884 [Paper No. 14].

2. We are of opinion that it would be for the convenience of the Telegraph Department and the public that Act I of 1876 should be repealed and re-enacted with most of the modifications and additions proposed by the Bill as introduced. We have accordingly re-drawn the Bill as a consolidating measure.

3. Objection having been taken to licensees being entrusted with the powers with which it was proposed to invest them as telegraph authorities, we have defined "telegraph authority" to mean the Government Telegraph Department (section 3, clause (6)), and provided that that authority shall not exercise the power of placing telegraph lines and posts except for the purposes of a telegraph established or maintained by the Government or to be so established or maintained (section 10).

4. We have also amended the definition of "local authority" so as to make that expression include a cantonment authority and clearly exclude any commercial association however incorporated (section 3, clause (7)).

5. In declaring, in section 4, the exclusive privilege of the Government to extend to establishing, maintaining and working telegraphs, and in empowering the Government to grant licenses to establish, maintain or work telegraphs, we formulate what is, and has always been understood to be, the existing law, and at the same time avoid the necessity of using the words "lease" and "lessee" which were introduced into the Bill of last year (section 13). A lease is a license to work a line established and maintained by the Government, and a lessee is the holder of such a license.

6. By section 7, sub-section (2), clause (b), we propose to give the Government the power of requiring licensees to provide for the seclusion of telegraph instruments at all offices open for the receipt of public messages. Clauses (c) and (d) of the same sub-section have been suggested to us by correspondence that has been placed at our disposal by the Public Works Department of the Government of India, respecting applications from time to time made by private persons to the Telegraph Department for the preservation of telegrams.

7. Most of the objections that were taken to the Bill as introduced, chiefly by commercial bodies in Calcutta, will, it is believed, have been met by our proposal that the power of placing telegraph lines and posts shall only be exercised by the Government Telegraph Department for the purposes of telegraphs established or maintained by the Government.

8. In section 11 we have, following a recent English Act, proposed to empower the telegraph authority to enter at any time on property for the purpose of examining, repairing, altering or removing any telegraph line or post that has been placed on it.

9. In section 14 we have adhered to the provisions of the English Act (26 & 27 Vic., c. 112, sections 6 and 8), though in practice the officers of the Telegraph Department will doubtless arrange for the alteration of the position of any pipe or drain being carried out by the authority having control of it.

10. In section 15 we have provided, on the suggestion of the Government of Bombay, that disputes between the telegraph authority and local authorities shall be determined by a local officer whose decision will be subject to appeal to the Local Government.

11. In section 16, sub-sections (1) and (2), we have provided for recourse being had by the telegraph authority to the District Magistrate where the exercise of the powers conferred on that authority is resisted. We have also provided in this section, sub-section (4), in accordance with the suggestion of the Government of Bombay, that the telegraph authority may pay compensation into Court where any dispute arises as to the persons entitled to receive it.

12. We have met the objections that were taken to section 10 of the Bill as introduced by providing in section 17 of the present Bill that a person desiring the removal or the alteration of the position of a telegraph line or post shall tender the cost of the removal or alteration in those cases only in which compensation has been paid by the telegraph authority, and that in those cases he shall not be required to tender more than half the sum that was paid to him as compensation.

13. By section 18 we have proposed to provide for the removal by order of a Magistrate of trees interrupting or likely to interrupt telegraphic communication. A somewhat similar provision in the case of trees dangerous to railways is contained in the Regulation of Railways Act, 1868 (31 & 32 Vic., c. 119, section 24).

14. By section 26 we propose to subject a person who is not a telegraph officer, but has official duties connected with an office which is used as a telegraph office, to the same penalty as that to which a telegraph officer is liable for secreting or altering telegrams or unlawfully intercepting or disclosing them. Many post offices in India are now used as telegraph offices, and we consider that postal officials should be restrained by penalty, as they are under the English Telegraph Act of 1868, from abusing such opportunities as they may have of becoming acquainted with the contents of telegraphic messsages.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to correct certain minor defects in the criminal law which have been brought to the notice of the Government of India during the three years which have elapsed since the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, was passed.

The following are the reasons for each of the proposed amendments.

Section 1.—An Assistant Sessions Judge may pass a substantive sentence of transportation for any term not exceeding seven years under section 121A or section 124A of the Indian Penal Code, or a substituted sentence of transportation for a term not less than seven years under section 59 of that Code. But only sentences of imprisonment for a term exceeding three years are declared subject to confirmation by the Sessions Judge. The omission to require that certain sentences of transportation as well as of imprisonment should be subject to confirmation was clearly an oversight. It is now proposed to correct the omission, and, in accordance with the opinion of the Hon'ble the Chief Justice and Judges of the Bombay High Court, to extend to four years the term of transportation or imprisonment which an Assistant Sessions Judge may award without the sentence being subject to confirmation. Under section 35 of the Code a first class Magistrate can pass an aggregate sentence of imprisonment for four years which is subject only to appeal.

Section 2.—A District Magistrate specially empowered under section 30 may, under the provisions of section 59 of the Indian Penal Code, pass a sentence of transportation for seven years, instead of awarding sentence of imprisonment (9 Sutherland's Weekly Reporter, Criminal Rulings, 6). Such a substituted sentence of transportation should be subject to confirmation by the Sessions Judge.

As section 34 now stands, an aggregate sentence of imprisonment for four years passed by a District Magistrate specially empowered under section 30 is subject to the confirmation of the Sessions Judge, while such a sentence passed by one of his subordinates exercising the powers of a first class Magistrate is subject only to appeal. It seems desirable, therefore, as recommended by the Bombay High Court in the case of Assistant Sessions Judges, to extend to four years the term of imprisonment which a District Magistrate may award under section 34 without the sentence being subject to confirmation.

The difference between the powers of the Assistant Sessions Judge and those of a Magistrate specially empowered under section 30 being thus very trifling, it has been thought best to put the latter on precisely the same footing as the former, and section 34 has accordingly been re-cast.

Section 3.—This section is intended to correct an oversight in the drafting of section 88. Section 10 of the Code confines the term "District Magistrate" to the Magistrate of a district outside a Presidency town.

Sections 4 and 12.—The object of these sections is to make it clearer than section 110 and Schedule III now do that Sub-divisional Magistrates have power, without being specially empowered by the Local Government in that behalf, to require security for good behaviour from habitual offenders.

Section 5.—This section will restore the practice that obtained while the Code of 1872 was in force. Under that Code police-reports under section 125 were submitted through the superior officer of police appointed under section 117, but those under section 127 were submitted direct to the Magistrate.

Section 6.—This section will remove a doubt which has been expressed as to whether High Courts other than those referred to in section 266 can make rules under the Code regarding the manner in which jurors shall be chosen by lot.

Section 7.—It would seem that the only sort of condition on which suspension or remission of sentence may now be granted under section 401 is a potestative condition, that is to say, a condition to be performed by the convict and dependent on his will. This limitation may prove inconvenient, and sometimes prevent the release of convicts who might otherwise be set at large.

Section 8.—The object of this section is to give the Governor-General in Council the same powers in regard to the removal of persons confined under Chapter XXXIV of the Code as he possesses under section 32 of the Prisoners' Act, 1871, in the case of persons under sentence of imprisonment. It is desirable that, by whatever Local Government criminal lunatics may have been ordered to be confined, they should be confined wherever the most suitable accommodation has been provided for the custody of such persons.

Section 9.—This section is suggested by I. L. R. 10 Cal. 1026. The effect of it will be that a Local Government may appoint as many Chemical Examiners as it thinks fit. All must be gazetted as "Chemical Examiners" and must sign as such, but they can, for departmental purposes, be graded or distinguished from one another in such manner as the Local Government desires.

Section 10.—The power of a Criminal Court to order the transfer from the civil jail to the criminal jail of a civil prisoner against whom a criminal charge is made having been questioned in the Bombay Presidency, the Local Government asked the High Court whether that Court could make a rule conferring the power. In reply the Hon'ble the Chief Justice and Judges stated that they were very doubtful whether they had authority to make any valid rule on the subject, and advised that, if the conferment of the power was deemed necessary, recourse should be had to legislation.

It appears to the Government of Bombay and to the Government of India that the power should be conferred, and the object of this section is to confer it.

At the same time, in order that the rights given to decree-holders by the existing law may not be interfered with, it has been provided that the prisoner shall ordinarily be sent back to the civil jail when his detention under the orders of the Criminal Court has ceased.

Section 11.—Under the Code of 1872 the offence, under section 211 of the Indian Penal Code, of making a false charge of an offence with intent to injure, was triable by the Court of Session exclusively when the offence charged was punishable with imprisonment for seven years or upwards. While the Bill which became the Code of 1882 was under consideration, the Select Committee determined, on the suggestion of a Sessions Judge, that Magistrates of the first class should be empowered to deal with cases under section 211 when the offence charged was punishable with imprisonment for seven years, cases where the offence charged was punishable with imprisonment for a term exceeding seven years continuing to be exclusively triable by the Court of Session. The entry in the second column of Schedule II, in the second line of entries against section 211, was altered accordingly; but the additional entries which it is proposed by section 11 of this Bill to insert in Schedule II will make still clearer the alteration which the Select Committee intended to effect.

Section 13.—The last nine words of section 24, Act V of 1861, were repealed by Schedule I of the Code of 1882. Through an oversight the same words in section 23, Bombay Act VII of 1867, remained unrepealed and are still in force (I. L. R. 8 Bombay 534). It is now proposed to repeal them.

Section 14.—It is proposed by this section to substitute for section 225A of the Indian Penal Code a section that will cover not only the case there provided for, but the cases which section 651 of the Code of Civil Procedure was intended to meet, and others, such as those referred to in I. L. R. 8 Cal. 331 and 7 All. 67, for which no provision has hitherto been made.

Section 15.—The exigencies of prison administration occasionally necessitate the transfer from one jail to another within the same province of persons who have been imprisoned in default of giving security for keeping the peace or maintaining good behaviour.

Section 30 of the Prisoners' Act only provides for the transfer of persons sentenced to imprisonment. "Sentence" seems to imply an antecedent conviction for an offence, and persons who are imprisoned for default in furnishing security are not persons who have been so convicted.

Section 16.—The object of this section, as of section 8, is to empower the Governor-General in Council to send prisoners of unsound mind to the part of India where persons in their condition are likely to be best cared for.

Section 17.—It occasionally happens that members of criminal tribes, while on marauding expeditions in other provinces than that in which they have their homes, are arrested, ordered to give security for good behaviour, and imprisoned in default of giving it. In such cases it seems proper that the prisoners should ordinarily be sent back to the district from which they came, instead of being released in a district which may be hundreds of miles distant from their homes and where dishonesty might be their only possible means of subsistence.

Resolution by the Government of India, Revenue and Agricultural Department, dated the 18th March 1885, defining the share to be taken by India in the London Exhibition of 1886, and publishing certain information for the guidance of intending exhibitors.

Letter from the Government of India, Revenue and Agricultural Department, No. 26Ex.—1—24, dated 18th March 1885, forwarding with remarks copy of a despatch from the Secretary of State, determining the functions of the Government of India and the Provincial Governments respectively in connection with the London Exhibition.

Letter from the Government of India, Revenue and Agricultural Department, No. 29Ex.—1—29, dated 23rd March 1885, forwarding a sketch plan of the Exhibition, and communicating certain instructions.

The Resolution of this Government, dated the 2nd May 1885, appointing a committee to take charge of the Bengal Court of artware, ornamental fabrics and decorative work at the Indo-Colonial Exhibition.

IN the original instructions laid down by the Government of India and the Secretary of State for the guidance of Provincial Governments in preparing for the Indo-Colonial Exhibition of 1886, the operations of the Government of Bengal were limited to the equipment of the Provincial Court illustrating the artware, ornamental fabrics, and decorative work of the Lower Provinces. The representation of economic and commercial products was confined to the Imperial Courts, and the work of collecting exhibits under this head was expressly reserved by the Government of India to be dealt with by the Department of Revenue and Agriculture. The object in view was to make the collection "national and not provincial" in character, and to prevent the unnecessary re-duplication of exhibits which it was apprehended might take place if the several provinces worked concurrently on the same lines. It resulted from this allotment of duties that in forming a Provincial Committee for the equipment of the Bengal Court, the subjects of artware and ornamental articles had alone to be considered, and there appeared to be no necessity for appointing members representing the larger commercial interests to be illustrated in the Imperial Courts. It was felt, moreover, that where the scope of the operations was so limited, the Government could not fairly ask gentlemen fully occupied with commercial business to devote a substantial portion of their time to assisting the Government in forming a collection of only the artistic products of Bengal.

The Government of India have now expressed their wish to enlist the co-operation of the mercantile community of Bengal in the preparations for the Indo-Colonial Exhibition, in order to ensure an adequate representation of trade samples of the most important commodities and manufactures of the Lower Provinces. With this object they propose to devote a large portion of the Imperial Court to commercial products and manufactures, so arranged as to give an opportunity for a separate and distinct display of each. It is intended to relegate to the walls of the Imperial Court the collection of economic samples already prepared on a scientific system of grouping by the Revenue and Agricultural Department, and to allot for the exhibition of commercial products arranged on a purely mercantile system as large an area as possible in the centre of the Court. The entire arrangement of the programme for the indigo and jute sections for the whole of India is also to be entrusted to the representatives of those industries in Bengal, and the Government of India intend to direct the authorities in other provinces to transmit their jute and indigo samples to Calcutta to be dealt with by the Committee to be formed for this purpose. It has been left to the Bengal Government to determine in what manner the mercantile community should be invited to co-operate in the work. On a careful consideration of the subject, and after consulting persons qualified to advise in the matter, it seems to the Lieutenant-Governor that the object in view can be most conveniently and effectively attained by adding to the Committee already appointed to deal with the artware of Bengal, members representing the wider commercial interests which now have to be considered. The Lieutenant-Governor has, therefore, determined to reconstitute the existing Committee in a manner calculated to carry out the objects now in view; and he has secured the assent of several members of some of the leading firms of Calcutta, who are specially conversant with the chief raw products and manufactured articles of Bengal and whose practical experience will be of the greatest value, to co-operate with the Committee in determining in what way the trade of these provinces can best be illustrated at the London Exhibition. The Committee thus formed, including those gentlemen who have consented to join it for the purpose of dealing more particularly with the commercial exhibits, will consist of the following members:—

Mr. H. A. Cockerell, C.S.I., President.
„ D. Cruickshank, Vice-President.
„ H. Berger.
Surgeon-Major, D. D. Cunningham.
Mr. M. Finucane.
„ J. Henderson.
„ C. R. Hills.
„ J. J. J. Keswick.
Dr. G. King.
Mr. H. H. Locke.
„ R. Lyall.
Hon'ble A. P. MacDonnell.
Mr. J. D. Maxwell.
Hon'ble R. Miller.
Mr. J. Murdoch.
„ A. Pedler.
„ T. Ralli.
„ H. H. Risley.
„ A Simson.
Hon'ble Colonel S. T. Trevor.
Lieutenant-Colonel Waterhouse.
Mr. M. Jackson, Member and Secretary.

The duties of the Committee are indicated in greater detail in the papers quoted in the preamble to this resolution, copies of which will be sent to all the members. It is believed that the gentlemen who have now joined the Committee, besides determining the best methods of representing the commercial products of Bengal, will be able to render most valuable assistance in dealing with the artwares and other decorative articles the collection of which is now in progress. And the Lieutenant-Governor hopes that the labours of the enlarged Committee now constituted may result in the formation of a collection of exhibits worthily representing both the vast economic interests and the decorative products of Bengal.

ORDER.—Ordered that copies of the Resolution be forwarded to all Departments of Government, all Commissioners, and the Members of the Committee, for information and guidance.

Also that it be published in the Calcutta and Vernacular Gazettes.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

H. H. RISLEY,

Offg. Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

THE PALANDU EMIGRANTS.

Dated Calcutta, the 4th August 1885.

From—H. H. RISLEY, Esq., Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal, General Dept.,
To—The Secretary, Indian Tea Association.

I AM directed by the Lieutenant-Governor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 8th May 1885, and to thank your Association for the enquiries which they have made with reference to the case of the family of five persons, residents of the Hazaribagh district, who were recruited in October 1883, by Mr. J. Binning of Palandu near Ranchi for service on the gardens of the Khobong Tea Co., Limited, in Assam, and who, on their arrival, were with 67 others, 37 of whom had been recruited by the same agent, rejected as unfit for work. The circumstances of the return of these five emigrants to their home are narrated in Mr. MacDonnell's letter No. 71, dated the 16th March 1885, to your address, and in your letter above quoted. The Lieutenant-Governor desires me to make the following remarks on the three points which are stated in paragraph 3 of your letter as arising on consideration of all the facts of the case.

2. With regard to the conduct of Mr. Binning in the matter, it appears to the Lieutenant-Governor to be impossible to doubt that this gentleman, who is believed to have had long experience as a recruiting agent, must have been well aware that the intending emigrants were incapable of doing regular work on any garden in Assam. Before despatching them from Ranchi, it was his duty, both in the interests of his employers and as a matter of humanity, to ascertain by personal examination that the intending emigrants were physically fit to undertake the journey to Assam and to labour on a tea garden. Mr. Binning is therefore primarily responsible for the hardship and suffering which the emigrants appear to have undergone, and the fact that the Khobong Tea Company's Agent at Ranigunge, about 120 miles by road from the place where the emigrants were recruited, forwarded them to Assam, does not relieve him from the charge of inhumanity towards the emigrants, and of culpable carelessness in carrying out his agreement to supply labourers for the Company.

3. In respect of the provision made for the coolies on their return journey, reasonable care seems to have been taken by the Manager of the garden and his agents as far as Ranigunge. From this point, however, the arrangements were less satisfactory, and the allegation that the chuprasi who had charge of them during this part of the journey omitted to provide for their wants remains unanswered. For this neglect, however, the Ranigunge agent, and not the Manager of the garden, appears to have been responsible. In the matter of the rejection of the emigrants, the Lieutenant-Governor is not prepared to say that the action of the Manager was otherwise than fair. He observes, however, that the contract under which they emigrated appears to have been executed only by the coolies, and he thinks that in future cases the agent in the recruiting districts should be empowered to sign such contracts on behalf of the employer in Assam.

4. With regard to the medical examination of free, or unregistered, emigrants, the Lieutenant-Governor is satisfied, after consulting the officers of the recruiting districts, that in the existing state of the Emigration law, it is hardly possible to arrange for the medical examination of free emigrants; and he is not prepared at present to recommend an amendment of the law in this direction. Sir Rivers Thompson agrees with the Association in thinking that this is a matter in which employers may in most cases be trusted to look after their own interests, and he would suggest, for the consideration of the Tea Association, that the object in view might be attained with little trouble and expense if local recruiters or agents were instructed by their employers to refer doubtful cases to the Civil Surgeon for examination.

5. The Lieutenant-Governor is willing to believe that the abuses connected with the introduction of a system of free emigration have been recently checked in great measure by the action of the Indian Tea Association, and that the case which has formed the immediate subject of this correspondence is an exceptional one. The great responsibilities of employers in the matter of labour recruiting need, however, to be borne in mind. Great power is vested in the agents employed for the purposes of recruiting, and if their proceedings are not controlled by a strong hand by those who employ them, irregularities and malpractices will prevail. Government could not tolerate the recurrence of such evils in the matter of improper recruitment as have been revealed in the case of these emigrants from Palandu, and would have to interfere by legislation to prevent agents who had abused their powers from exercising their profession. At present the remedy is in the hands of Managers, and it seems scarcely possible that employers would continue to retain in their service an agent who should subject them to so much inconvenience and expense as have been suffered by the Khobong Company at the hands of Mr. Binning.

6. I am to add that the correspondence will be published in the Calcutta Gazette, and will be brought to the notice of the Government of India, in connection with a report on the working of the Inland Emigration Act during the last three years, which has been called for by the Secretary of State.

No. 71, dated Calcutta, the 16th March 1885.

From—A. P. MacDonnell, Esq., Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal, General Dept.,

To—The Secretary to the Indian Tea Association.

The following case has been reported to Government as illustrating the evils of the free labour system:—

Mr. J. Binning, of Palandu, one of the largest recruiters of free labour, recruited in October last, through the agency of Arkattis, a family of five persons from the Hazareebagh district, and they entered into engagements with him to serve in Assam for three years. On their arrival at the garden, they were, with 67 others, rejected as unfit for work, and ordered to return to their homes. Out of these 72 persons, 37 were persons who had been recruited by Mr. Binning and were being returned to him. The family of five persons above alluded to received from the chuprasi in charge a very poor meal daily from the garden to Dhubri; and from Dhubri to Kaunia, a distance of 24 miles, they got no food at all, as the chuprasi who was provided with expenses for the road missed them. Between Kaunia and Raneegunge they had no cause for complaint, but from Raneegunge they were accompanied by a chuprasi who, though provided with sufficient funds, gave them only one very poor meal a day. The whole party were, in consequence, so reduced in strength as to be unfit to travel, and one of them, a woman, was found alone on the roadside by the Deputy Commissioner of Manbhoom in a condition of weakness which necessitated her removal in a cart. The whole party, consisting of five persons, had to be sent to the charitable dispensary at Purulia. It is not known what became of 32 other persons who were also returning to Mr. Binning with the above five persons, but they are said to have deserted at various places on the road owing to ill-treatment by the chuprasi in charge, who was dismissed by his employer, Mr. Caw. Mr. Binning, though called on to pay the expense incurred in the treatment of the above coolies in the Purulia charitable dispensary, refused, alleging that his responsibility ceased as soon as he had despatched them to Assam.

2. The circumstances of this case are such as, in Sir Rivers Thompson's opinion, deserve the attention of the Tea Association. It is true that the contract entered into with the labourers (of which a copy is enclosed) was an ordinary civil contract, and did not provide for the payment of compensation in the event of any of the coolies being rejected as unfit for labour on arrival in Assam. But the case was one for the exercise of more humanity than was displayed by Mr. Binning, and it was also one, in which the provision made for these coolies by the employer who dismissed them, as well as the cause of their dismissal, might well be enquired into. The case also suggests the desirability of having free emigrants, if collected by garden agency, examined medically in the district of recruitment. It may be that there are difficulties in the way of such examination; but if the difficulties be not insurmountable, the adoption of some such plan might be advantageous both in the interests of the employer and the coolie. The Lieutenant-Governor would therefore feel obliged if your Association would take the matter into consideration and favour him with their views as to the practicability of such medical examination of intending emigrants previous to their departure from their native district.

Dated Calcutta, the 8th May 1885.

From—G. M Barton, Esq , Secretary, Indian Tea Association,

To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, General Department.

In continuation of my letter of the 31st March, I have now the honour, by direction of the General Committee of this Association, to reply to your communication dated the 16th idem, with reference to a case that had been reported to the Government of Bengal as illustrating the evils of the free labour system.

2. The case refers more especially to a family of five persons who were recruited by Mr. J. Binning, of Palandu, for service on the gardens of the Khobong Tea Company, Limited, in Assam, and who, on their arrival at their destination, were, with 67 others, rejected as unfit for work, and ordered to return to their homes. Out of these 72 persons, 37 had been recruited by Mr. Binning, and were being returned to him. It is stated that the family of five persons above alluded to received from the chuprasi in charge a very poor meal daily from the garden to Dhubri, and that from Dhubri to Kaunia they got no food at all, as the chuprasi, who was provided with expenses for the road, missed them. Between Kaunia and Ranigunge they had no cause of complaint, but from Ranigunge they received only one very poor meal a day, and the consequence was that they were so reduced in strength that, on arrival at Purulia, the whole party had to be sent to the charitable dispensary. The 32 other persons who were also returning to Mr. Binning are said to have deserted at various places on the road, owing to ill-treatment by the chuprasi in charge, who has been dismissed by his employer, Mr. Caw of Ranigunge. It is also stated that Mr. Binning, though called on to pay the expense incurred in the treatment of the five coolies in the Purulia Charitable Dispensary, refused to do so on the ground that his responsibility ceased as soon as he had despatched them to Assam.

3. The case seems to embrace the following points regarding which His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor would be glad to have some explanation or expression of opinion on the part of this Association :—

(1.) The want of humanity displayed by Mr. Binning.

(2.) The provision made for these coolies by the employer who dismissed them, as well as the cause of their dismissal.

(3.) The desirability of having free emigrants, if collected by garden agency, examined medically in the district of recruitment.

4. With reference to the first point, as to the want of humanity displayed by Mr. Binning, that gentleman has referred the Association to a letter written by him on the 1st March 1884 to the Deputy Commissioner of Lohardugga in reply to one requesting him to forward Rs. 20 for the maintenance and sending home of certain coolies in the Purulia hospital. In that letter he stated that some time previous he had written to the Deputy Commissioner of Purulia on the subject, and had informed him that the proper person to defray any expense of the kind was Mr. Alexander Caw, forwarding agent at Ranigunge. He went on to say in the same letter that the coolies in question had been passed and forwarded to Assam by Mr. Caw as agent for Mr. H. G. Lindsay of the Khobong Tea Company, Limited, after which his (Mr. Binning's) responsibility ceased. It would appear that this amount was subsequently paid by the Calcutta Agents of the Khobong Tea Company, Limited.

5. As to the second point, which refers to the provision made for these return coolies by the employer who dismissed them, as well as to the cause of their dismissal, I am directed by the General Committee to state that, from information supplied by the Manager of the Khobong Tea Company, Limited, they learn that the rejected coolies walked in in three days from the garden to Debrughar, and for this journey they had, before they left, a week's supply of food given them. They stayed one day in Debrughar and proceeded by steamer to Dhubri, the garden agent in the former place providing them with an ample allowance to convey them to Dhubri. At Dhubri the forwarding agent had orders to have the coolies carefully sent on to Ranigunge, and from there they were despatched to Ranchi by Mr. Caw.

6. With regard to the statement that the family of five persons received from the chuprasi in charge a very poor meal daily from the garden to Dhubri, the Manager reports that there was no such person as a chuprasi in charge of the food. The coolies had all their own cooking utensils supplied to them, and to each one individually was given his or her ration of salt, oil, rice, dâll, spices, &c., as can be proved by numerous witnesses whom the Manager could produce. He naturally feels aggrieved that any such statement should have been made to Government; and should further enquiry be made, he will be happy to supply all the information in his power.

7. As to the cause of the dismissal of the coolies, the Manager explains that it was not a fact that, on being considered unfit to labour in Assam, they were ordered to return to their homes. They were never asked to work, but were allowed to see what the other coolies did, and were told that they could not do the like. They were then asked if they would wish to return to their country at once, and those who liked to remain were told to stand on one side, but, with very few exceptions, all clamoured to be sent back. There was no hurry in the matter, and some of the planters in the neighbourhood and the medical man were asked to look at the coolies. One and all pronounced them unfit, and said the Manager was right in sending them back, his own feeling being that common humanity would have induced any one under the same circumstances to act as he did.

8. With regard to the third point raised in the letter under reply, which refers to the desirability of having free emigrants, if collected by garden agency, examined medically in the district of recruitment, I am desired by the General Committee to say that it seems to them that any compulsory medical examination is unnecessary, as free emigrants would probably be deterred from proceeding to the tea districts if they knew that they were subject to the delay and inconvenience of such examination. Any employer entering into an engagement for a supply of free emigrants can stipulate that they shall be medically examined before being despatched to the tea districts, and if an employer should be badly served by his local agents in respect to the quality of the coolies despatched, he is not likely to employ the same agent again: so the evil is one that must cure itself. I am further to point out that the case under notice is a most exceptional one, and the expense attending it will probably be sufficient to prevent a recurrence.

9. In conclusion, I am desired by the General Committee to say that they regret the unavoidable delay which has occurred in replying to your letter, but they will be happy to give publicity to its contents, and to their reply, as they believe such a course would tend to put a stop to any further cause of complaints of a like nature.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h., and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86 formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

Calcutta, the 4th August 1885.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 31ST OF JULY 1885.

On the last day of the previous week a small area of low pressure, which had been generated to the south-east of Calcutta, had moved in a westerly direction, and on the Friday its centre was to the west of Midnapur. The small storm again advanced in a westerly direction, and before 10 A.M. of Sunday, the 26th, it apparently filled up and disappeared. The storm was, however, an exceedingly feeble one, and in its advance it brought up light to moderate rain, and at the same time another advance of humid southerly winds took place over Bengal. These conditions continued on Sunday, the 26th, but at this time a rapid fall of the barometer took place, which was particularly noticeable over parts of South-West Bengal, and this was followed by the formation on Tuesday, the 28th, of a distinct barometric depression over South-West Bengal, and at 10 A.M. of this day its centre was to the south-east of Calcutta. On the Wednesday the depression had advanced in a westerly or north-westerly direction, and at 10 A.M. on this day its centre was near Midnapur. It continued its advance on the Thursday through Chutia Nagpur, and afterwards travelled through the North-West Provinces, and according to the telegraphic reports received from the India Meteorological office, the storm was still in existence on Saturday, the 1st of August, near Agra. This storm, it will be seen, had a longer life history than has been the case with most of the small storms which have been generated at the head of the Bay during the present monsoon, and it would therefore appear to have been of rather greater intensity. It brought up to many stations in its path very heavy rain, and with its advance a light monsoon set in, which, however, seemed to fall off rapidly in intensity at the close of the week, and on the Friday very small amounts of rain only were being received over the Province, and the distribution of the showers was very local. Conditions have thus again been, during the greater part of the week, favourable for giving a good and general rainfall over the greater part of the Province, and the result has been that in most districts moderate rain has been general on from four to five days out of the seven.

Pressure during the previous week had been fairly steadily below the normal, the average defect over the whole Province being about 0·044″, while the defect was fairly evenly distributed, the variations being from a deficient pressure of 0·05″ in South-West Bengal to a defect of 0·03″ in Chutia Nagpur. During the present week the defect has become somewhat smaller, and it averages for the whole of the Province only 0·033″, while the variations in the meterological districts are from a defect of 0·018″ in Orissa to a defect of 0·043″ in Behar. The variations of pressure from day to day have been of the usual oscillatory character, and the barometer was rising generally on the 25th, falling from the 26th to the 28th, increasing again on the 29th and 30th, while on the 31st the barometric variations were a little irregular. The most rapid changes of pressure have of course taken place in connection with the formation and advance of the depression noticed above, but even in this case, as the depression was rather a feeble one, the fall of the barometer near its centre was very slight.

Temperature was during the previous week very nearly normal, and the average variation over the whole Province from the normal only amounted to an excess of 0·3°. During the present week the temperature has again been almost normal, and the average temperature scarcely differs from the normal temperature by more than a tenth of a degree, the actual being lower than the normal temperature. From day to day the changes of temperature have been particularly small, and of the usual character dependent to a great extent on the presence or absence of rainfall and of cloud. The greatest variations from normal temperature have been in Orissa, which shows a defect of 1°, but in most other districts the variations from normal have been much smaller than this.

The wind directions were at the commencement of the week very nearly normal in all districts. At the inland stations wind velocities were generally small, but at the head of the Bay rather strong winds were blowing. On Sunday, the 26th, there was a slight advance of the Bombay branch of the monsoon current, and westerly winds were reported from the western districts. There was thus a little interaction between the opposing wind currents, and this was at once accompanied by the precipitation of rather heavy and general rain in South Behar and Chutia Nagpur. On the following day the westerly current strengthened, and it extended even into North and East Bengal, and this was accompanied by heavy rain in these districts, and over South-West Bengal and parts of North Behar. These conditions continued fairly constant on Tuesday the 28th, and on this day the small barometric depression had formed to the south-east of Calcutta, when rainfall was general and rather heavy in all districts. The wind directions were then of course directly influenced by the area of low pressure, and with its advance the cyclonic circulation of winds also advanced and brought up with it a rather light monsoon current from the Bay of Bengal Finally, with the movement of the depression into the North-West Provinces a rather strong westerly current set in over the western parts of Bengal and rainfall became very light on the Friday.

The rainfall for the week was on the whole most general from Sunday, the 26th, up to Wednesday, the 29th, and the rainfall at the commencement and end of the week was decidedly lighter in almost all instances than that which fell in the middle of the week. Thus on the Saturday the rainfall was light, and though fairly general in most districts,

North Behar was almost rainless. On Sunday general and heavy rainfall was received in South Behar and Chutia Nagpur, and rainfall was general in all districts except perhaps Orissa. On Monday and Tuesday rainfall was general and rather heavy in all districts, but on the Wednesday, though rainfall was still general, the amounts commenced to diminish and the falls were in most instances light. On the following two days the area of rainfall gradually diminished, and the amounts decreased except in North Bengal, where the heavy falls continued somewhat longer than in other districts.

Compared with the normal rainfall, the amounts received during the week have been distinctly in excess in North Bengal, Chutia Nagpur and South-West Bengal. South Behar has received a normal fall, while North Behar and East Bengal have received falls slightly below the normal, and Orissa a fall decidedly below the normal. Thus North Bengal has received 3·95 inches against the normal 3·05 inches, which is equal to 29 per cent in excess. Chutia Nagpur has received an average fall of 3·60 inches against the normal 3·49 inches, or 3 per cent. in excess. Over South-West Bengal the average fall has been 3·42 inches against the normal 3·38 inches, which is 1 per cent. in excess. South Behar has registered 3·42 inches against 3·43 inches, a fall which is practically normal. North Behar reports an average of 2·38 inches against the normal 2 93 inches, which is equal to a defect of 18 per cent. In Orissa the amount registered has been 1·91 inches against the normal 3·00 inches, or a defect of 36 per cent., while in East Bengal the average fall has been 4·35 inches against the normal fall of 5·04 inches, which is therefore a defect of 13 per cent. Taking the whole Province into consideration, the rainfall has not been far removed for the normal, and the variation is only 5 per cent. in defect. The average number of rainy days over the Province has been 4·5 against the normal average of 4·5, and thus, while probably the number of rain showers have been equal to the normal, the showers have been lighter than usual.

The distribution of the rainfall in the respective meteorological divisions has generally been fairly equal, but though the above numbers represent pretty well the average distribution of the rainfall, there are certain districts where the amounts received call for more particular notice. Thus in South-West Bengal the general fall is in excess of the normal, though the district of Burdwan has only received 1·75 inches against the normal amount 3·35 inches, while at Burdwan itself the fall was only 0·60 inch for the week. The Ranigunge district has only received 2·01 inches against the normal 3·81 inches. Kishnaghur has only received 1 32 inches, though the normal fall of the district is 3 inches. Again in Chutia Nagpur, though the average fall is distinctly in excess of the normal, Chyebassa only reports 1·57 inches against a normal fall of 4·12 inches. The following stations also show rather exceptionally small amounts of rain during the week as compared with the amounts received at the neighbouring stations :—Narail in the Jessore district, Dacca, Maldah, Bagdogra in the Rungpore district, Gondwara in North Behar, Maddapur in the Bhagulpore district, Mozufferpore, Motihari, Bagaha, and Burhurwa in the Chumparun district, Buxar, Dehree, Monghyr and Hazaribagh.

On the other hand some exceptionally heavy falls have been reported from various stations : thus Kotalpore in the Bankoora district on the 28th reported 5·78 inches, Jehanabad in the Hooghly district on the same day 4·5 inches ; on the 26th Arrah reported 5·05 inches ; on the 27th Jessore reported 5·26 inches, Fenny 6·42 inches and Julpigoree 5·64 inches ; on the 28th Manikgunge received 4·51 inches and Atcah in the Mymensingh district 6·47 inches, while on the 29th Contai received 4·57 inches, and Saugor Island 4·21 inches.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the Province for the week ending Friday, the 31st of July 1885 :—

MEMORANDA.

THE following is a summary of the principal facts connected with the vital statistics of the principal Municipalities in Bengal for the week ending 18th July 1885, exhibited in the annexed table—

1. That births and deaths were recorded in these Municipalities in the proportions, respectively, of 21·2 and 39·0 per 1,000 of population as opposed to 21·6 and 34·9 per 1,000, respectively, during the preceding week ending 11th July, indicating a considerable advance in the registration of deaths.

2. That the undermentioned Municipalities returned the highest proportions of births and deaths :—

Patna	40·5
Suburbs of Calcutta	37·6
Monghyr	36·2
Purneah	34·6

3. That, as compared with the results of the preceding week, the mortality from cholera had increased considerably ; the death-rate from fever exhibits no variation ; and there were no marked differences in fatal results from the rest of the diseases :—

4. That the highest death-rates from cholera, fever and the diseases classed under the head of "Other causes" were returned from the following Municipalities, the rest of the maladies not proving noticeably fatal anywhere :—

It will be noticed that cholera prevailed with considerably abated severity in the Mozufferpore Municipality in comparison with its incidence during the preceding week, but that, in the Puri Municipality, it progressed in virulence yielding a death-rate of as much as 402·8 per 1,000 of population. Most of this mortality is believed to have occurred among the pilgrims during the Rath Jatra festival.

5. That the mortality of the week, classified under the heads of Sex, Class and Age, stands as follows :—

* A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the natives remains as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Age," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of the Europeans above alluded to, cannot be employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the authorized form of age classification.

Calcutta Port Trust.

GUARANTEED DEBENTURE LOAN, 1885.

The Calcutta Port Improvement Act, V of 1870 (B.C.), and the amending Acts, and the Act to enable the Commissioners for making Improvements in the Port of Calcutta to construct Docks at Kidderpore, Act II (B C.) of 1885. Issue of seventy-five lakhs of Rupees, 4½ per cent. debentures, having a currency of not less than forty years. Interest guaranteed by the Secretary of State for India in Council until such time as the loan is repaid.

TENDERS are invited for a loan of seventy-five lakhs of rupees at 4½ per cent. interest upon debentures to be issued under the provisions of Act II (B.C.) of 1885 to provide for the construction, equipment, maintenance, and management of the docks at Kidderpore, such loan having been sanctioned by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council by notification published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 22nd July 1885, Part I, page 717, the payment of interest thereon being secured by the guarantee of the Secretary of State for India in Council until such time as the loan is repaid.

The debentures will be for sums of Rs. 100 each, or multiples of Rs. 100, as may be desired, made payable to order, and carrying interest at the rate of 4½ per cent. per annum, payable half-yearly on the 1st day of January and 1st day of July at the office of the Port Commissioners upon presentation of the debentures. Twenty-five per cent. of the amount tendered for to be paid on 1st October, 25 per cent on 1st November, and the balance on 1st December 1885, into the Bank of Bengal. Any allotment may, however, be paid in full at the option of the tenderer upon receipt of letter of allotment, and interest will run on such payments from the date of the Bank's receipts. The Bank of Bengal's receipts for the payments should be forwarded to the Port Commissioners, who, upon the receipt of the acknowledgment for the final instalment, will issue the debentures for the amount allotted in such sums as the holders of the receipts may desire. Arrangements will be made, if required, to enface debentures issued under this loan for payment of interest in England by drafts on India.

Tenders in the prescribed form should be filled up and forwarded in sealed covers superscribed "Tender for Port Trust Dock Loan, 1885," to the Secretary to the Port Commissioners before noon of Wednesday, the sixteenth day of September 1885, accompanied by either Government Promissory Notes equal in value to, or a receipt from the Bank of Bengal for, 2 per cent. upon the amount of each debenture applied for.

The deposit of 2 per cent. will be returned if an allotment is not made, and it will be forfeited if an allotment after being made is not fully taken up.

In case a less number of debentures is allotted than is applied for, the excess of the deposit will be applied in or towards payment of the balance due upon such number as may be allotted.

The tenders will be opened in the presence of the Port Commissioners. The minimum rate at which tenders will be accepted will be recorded under the signature of the Chairman and before the tenders are opened, but will not be made public unless some tender is rejected only because it is below the recorded minimum.

Forms of tender can be obtained on application to the Secretary to the Port Commissioners, and the form of debenture can be seen at the office of the Secretary. A separate tender must be made for each rate.

Governors or Consuls may pay expenses of passengers taken off passenger-ship.

5. If any passenger or cabin-passenger of any such passenger-ship as aforesaid, without any neglect or default of his own, finds himself within any colonial or foreign port or place other than that for which the ship was originally bound, or at which he, or the Emigration Agent, or any public officer or other person on his behalf, has contracted that he should land, it shall be lawful for the Governor of the colony, or for any person authorized by him for the purpose, or for Her Majesty's Consular Officer at the foreign port or place, as the case may be, to forward the passenger or cabin-passenger to his intended destination, unless the master of the ship, within forty-eight hours of the arrival of such passenger or cabin-passenger, gives to the Governor or Consular Officer, as the case may be, a written undertaking to forward or carry on within six weeks thereafter the passenger or cabin-passenger to his original destination, and unless the master accordingly forwards or carries him on within that period.

Governors or Consuls may send on passengers, if the master of the ship fail to do so.

6. (1) All expenses incurred under the last two preceding sections, or either of them, by or by the authority of a Governor or Consular Officer, or other person as therein respectively mentioned, including the cost of maintaining the passengers and cabin-passengers until forwarded to their destination, and of all necessary bedding, provisions and stores, shall become a debt to Her Majesty and Her successors from the owner, charterer and master of the ship, and shall be recoverable from them, or from any one or more of them, at the suit and for the use of Her Majesty, in like manner as in the case of other Crown debts.

Expenses incurred under sections 4 and 5 to be a Crown debt.

(2) A certificate in the form given in the schedule hereto annexed, or as near thereto as the circumstances of the case will admit, purporting to be under the hand of any such Governor or Consular Officer (as the case may be), stating the total amount of the expenses, shall, in any suit or other proceeding for the recovery of the debt, be received in evidence without proof of the handwriting or of the official character of the Governor or Consular Officer, and shall be deemed sufficient evidence of the amount of the expenses, and that the same were duly incurred;

nor shall it be necessary to adduce on behalf of Her Majesty any other evidence in support of the claim, but judgment shall pass for the Crown, with costs of suit, unless the defendant specially pleads and duly proves that the certificate is false or fraudulent, or specially pleads and duly proves any facts showing that the expenses were not duly incurred:

Provided, nevertheless, that in no case shall any larger sum be recovered on account of the expenses than a sum equal to twice the total amount of passage-money received or due to and recoverable by or on account of the owner, charterer or master of the passenger-ship or any of them from or on account of the whole number of passengers and cabin-passengers who may have embarked in the ship; which total amount of passage-money shall be proved by the defendant if he will have the advantage of this limitation of the debt; but if any such passengers are forwarded or conveyed to their intended destination under the provisions of the last preceding section, they shall not be entitled to the return of their passage-money, or to any compensation for loss of passage.

7. No policy of assurance effected in respect of any passages or of any passage or compensation money by any person by this Act made liable in the events aforesaid to provide those passages or to pay that money, or in respect of any other risk under this Act, shall be deemed invalid by reason of the nature of the risk or interest sought to be covered by the policy of assurance.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Report on the Bill to amend the law relating to the carriage of passengers by sea was presented to the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 8th July, 1885 :—

We, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to amend the law relating to the carriage of passengers by sea was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

From Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, British Burma, No. 304—5M.S., dated 13th February, 1885 [Paper No. 1].
From Secretary to Government, Bengal, No. 409, dated 19th February, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 2].
From Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 486J., dated 20th February, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 3].
From Under Secretary to Government, Bombay, No. 753, dated 28th February, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 4].
From Officiating Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, No. 1018, dated 27th March, 1885 [Papers No. 5].

2. The papers contain several suggestions both by officials and by commercial bodies which might be well worthy of consideration if the question were one as to the amendment of the English Passengers Acts, but which, having regard to the conditions under which we are now proceeding, it is beyond our power to entertain.

Acting, as we are, under the 99th section of the 18 & 19 Vic., c. 119, which is recited in the preamble to the Bill, we are restricted to applying to the voyages here in question the provisions of the English Passengers Acts as they stand; and if we were to introduce any modifications in the substance of those provisions, we should in all probability fail to secure for our Act the effect referred to at the end of the preamble, namely, that its provisions "shall be enforced in all Her Majesty's possessions in like manner as the provisions" of the English Passengers Acts.

3. Thus, we have no power to adopt the suggestion of the Bengal Chamber of Commerce that we should amend section 5 of the Bill so as to compel a Colonial Governor or Consular Officer to accept an undertaking to forward passengers offered by the owner, charterer or agent of a ship. We may observe, however, that, having regard to the definition of "master" in the Passengers Acts, and to the duties of a master of a wrecked ship, the contingency of there being no master of a wrecked ship, which this amendment was intended to meet, is one likely to be of very rare occurrence.

Moreover, as the Governor or Consular Officer is not compelled to act under the section, but has a discretion in the matter, there can be little doubt that in the case put he would accept the undertaking of the owner, charterer or agent.

4. Similarly, it would be beyond our powers, even if we thought it desirable to do so, to adopt the suggestion of the Madras Chamber that a shipowner should be relieved of the liability imposed by section 6 of the Bill in cases in which the ship is prevented from completing her voyage by the act of God or the Queen's enemies.

It appears to us, however, that the risk involved is one which should be provided against by insurance; and, in order to remove all doubt as to the possibility of so providing against it we have introduced into the Bill a section (7) similar to section 55 of the Passengers Act, 1855, expressly legalizing such insurances.

5. The Government of Bombay draw attention to the want of a provision like section 14 of the Passengers Act Amendment Act, 1863, to meet the case of passengers who may be left in British India owing to their ship being wrecked before she leaves the territorial waters, or who may be brought back to British India owing to their ship being wrecked or disabled after proceeding some short distance on her voyage. We are disposed to agree in thinking some such provision desirable, but the extraordinary powers under which we are now acting are not needed for its enactment, and we think the matter could be more conveniently dealt with in our Native Passengers and Emigration Acts, where we should be free to mould the law as we think fit to suit local requirements.

6. We have, at the suggestion of Brigadier-General Blair, the Political Resident at Aden, amended section 3 (c) so as to extend the Bill to voyages to ports on the East Coast of Africa and in the Gulf of Aden.

7. We have also made such amendments as were necessary to render it clear that the Bill extends, as the English Acts do, to cabin passengers.

(5) Every determination of a dispute by a District Judge under sub-section (3) or sub-section (4) shall be final:

Removal or alteration of telegraph line or post on property other than that of a local authority.

17. (1) When, under the foregoing provisions of this Act, a telegraph line or post has been placed by the telegraph authority under, over, along, across, in or upon any property, not being property vested in or under the control or management of a local authority, and any person entitled to do so desires to deal with that property in such a manner as to render it necessary or convenient that the telegraph line or post should be removed to another part thereof or to a higher or lower level or altered in form, he may require the telegraph authority to remove or alter the line or post accordingly:

Provided that, if compensation has been paid under section 10, clause (d), he shall, when making the requisition, tender to the telegraph authority the amount requisite to defray the expense of the removal or alteration, or half of the amount paid as compensation, whichever may be the smaller sum.

(2) If the telegraph authority omits to comply with the requisition, the person making it may apply to the District Magistrate within whose jurisdiction the property is situate to order the removal or alteration.

(3) A District Magistrate receiving an application under sub-section (2) may, in his discretion, reject the same or make an order, absolutely or subject to conditions, for the removal of the telegraph line or post to any other part of the property or to a higher or lower level or for the alteration of its form; and the order so made shall be final.

Removal of trees interrupting telegraphic communication.

18. (1) If any tree standing or lying near a telegraph line interrupts, or is likely to interrupt, telegraphic communication, a Magistrate of the first or second class may, on the application of the telegraph authority, cause the tree to be removed or dealt with in such other way as he deems fit.

(2) When disposing of an application under sub-section (1), the Magistrate shall, in the case of any tree in existence before the telegraph line was placed, award to the persons interested in the tree such compensation as he thinks reasonable, and the award shall be final.

Telegraph lines and posts placed before the passing of this Act.

19. Every telegraph line or post placed before the passing of this Act under, over, along, across, in or upon any property, for the purposes of a telegraph established or maintained by the Government, shall be deemed to have been placed in exercise of the powers conferred by, and after observance of all the requirements of, this Act.

THE following Report on the Bill to facilitate the construction of Telegraphs, and to amend the Indian Telegraph Act, 1876, was presented to the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 8th July, 1885 :—

We, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to facilitate the construction of Telegraphs, and to amend the Indian Telegraph Act, 1876, was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

Extract, paragraph III, from Proceedings of the Meerut Association, No. 13, dated 16th November, 1884 [Paper No. 13 .
Telegram from Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, dated 13th December, 1884 [Paper No. 14].

2. We are of opinion that it would be for the convenience of the Telegraph Department and the public that Act I of 1876 should be repealed and re-enacted with most of the modifications and additions proposed by the Bill as introduced. We have accordingly re-drawn the Bill as a consolidating measure.

3. Objection having been taken to licensees being entrusted with the powers with which it was proposed to invest them as telegraph authorities, we have defined "telegraph authority" to mean the Government Telegraph Department (section 3, clause (6)), and provided that that authority shall not exercise the power of placing telegraph lines and posts except for the purposes of a telegraph established or maintained by the Government or to be so established or maintained (section 10).

4. We have also amended the definition of "local authority" so as to make that expression include a cantonment authority and clearly exclude any commercial association however incorporated (section 3, clause (7)).

5. In declaring, in section 4, the exclusive privilege of the Government to extend to establishing, maintaining and working telegraphs, and in empowering the Government to grant licenses to establish, maintain or work telegraphs, we formulate what is, and has always been understood to be, the existing law, and at the same time avoid the necessity of using the words "lease" and "lessee" which were introduced into the Bill of last year (section 13). A lease is a license to work a line established and maintained by the Government, and a lessee is the holder of such a license.

6. By section 7, sub-section (2), clause (b), we propose to give the Government the power of requiring licensees to provide for the seclusion of telegraph instruments at all offices open for the receipt of public messages. Clauses (c) and (d) of the same sub-section have been suggested to us by correspondence that has been placed at our disposal by the Public Works Department of the Government of India, respecting applications from time to time made by private persons to the Telegraph Department for the preservation of telegrams.

7. Most of the objections that were taken to the Bill as introduced, chiefly by commercial bodies in Calcutta, will, it is believed, have been met by our proposal that the power of placing telegraph lines and posts shall only be exercised by the Government Telegraph Department for the purposes of telegraphs established or maintained by the Government.

8. In section 11 we have, following a recent English Act, proposed to empower the telegraph authority to enter at any time on property for the purpose of examining, repairing, altering or removing any telegraph line or post that has been placed on it.

9. In section 14 we have adhered to the provisions of the English Act (26 & 27 Vic., c. 112, sections 6 and 8), though in practice the officers of the Telegraph Department will doubtless arrange for the alteration of the position of any pipe or drain being carried out by the authority having control of it.

10. In section 15 we have provided, on the suggestion of the Government of Bombay, that disputes between the telegraph authority and local authorities shall be determined by a local officer whose decision will be subject to appeal to the Local Government.

11. In section 16, sub-sections (1) and (2), we have provided for recourse being had by the telegraph authority to the District Magistrate where the exercise of the powers conferred on that authority is resisted. We have also provided in this section, sub-section (4), in accordance with the suggestion of the Government of Bombay, that the telegraph authority may pay compensation into Court where any dispute arises as to the persons entitled to receive it.

12. We have met the objections that were taken to section 10 of the Bill as introduced by providing in section 17 of the present Bill that a person desiring the removal or the alteration of the position of a telegraph line or post shall tender the cost of the removal or alteration in those cases only in which compensation has been paid by the telegraph authority, and that in those cases he shall not be required to tender more than half the sum that was paid to him as compensation.

13. By section 18 we have proposed to provide for the removal by order of a Magistrate of trees interrupting or likely to interrupt telegraphic communication. A somewhat similar provision in the case of trees dangerous to railways is contained in the Regulation of Railways Act, 1868 (31 & 32 Vic., c. 119, section 24).

14. By section 26 we propose to subject a person who is not a telegraph officer, but has official duties connected with an office which is used as a telegraph office, to the same penalty as that to which a telegraph officer is liable for secreting or altering telegrams or unlawfully intercepting or disclosing them. Many post offices in India are now used as telegraph offices, and we consider that postal officials should be restrained by penalty, as they are under the English Telegraph Act of 1868, from abusing such opportunities as they may have of becoming acquainted with the contents of telegraphic messsages.

X of 1882.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to correct certain minor defects in the criminal law which have been brought to the notice of the Government of India during the three years which have elapsed since the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, was passed.

The following are the reasons for each of the proposed amendments.

Section 1.—An Assistant Sessions Judge may pass a substantive sentence of transportation for any term not exceeding seven years under section 121A or section 124A of the Indian Penal Code, or a substituted sentence of transportation for a term not less than seven years under section 59 of that Code. But only sentences of imprisonment for a term exceeding three years are declared subject to confirmation by the Sessions Judge. The omission to require that certain sentences of transportation as well as of imprisonment should be subject to confirmation was clearly an oversight. It is now proposed to correct the omission, and, in accordance with the opinion of the Hon'ble the Chief Justice and Judges of the Bombay High Court, to extend to four years the term of transportation or imprisonment which an Assistant Sessions Judge may award without the sentence being subject to confirmation. Under section 35 of the Code a first class Magistrate can pass an aggregate sentence of imprisonment for four years which is subject only to appeal.

Section 2.—A District Magistrate specially empowered under section 30 may, under the provisions of section 59 of the Indian Penal Code, pass a sentence of transportation for seven years, instead of awarding sentence of imprisonment (9 Sutherland's Weekly Reporter, Criminal Rulings, 6). Such a substituted sentence of transportation should be subject to confirmation by the Sessions Judge.

As section 34 now stands, an aggregate sentence of imprisonment for four years passed by a District Magistrate specially empowered under section 30 is subject to the confirmation of the Sessions Judge, while such a sentence passed by one of his subordinates exercising the powers of a first class Magistrate is subject only to appeal. It seems desirable, therefore, as recommended by the Bombay High Court in the case of Assistant Sessions Judges, to extend to four years the term of imprisonment which a District Magistrate may award under section 34 without the sentence being subject to confirmation.

The difference between the powers of the Assistant Sessions Judge and those of a Magistrate specially empowered under section 30 being thus very trifling, it has been thought best to put the latter on precisely the same footing as the former, and section 34 has accordingly been re-cast.

Section 3.—This section is intended to correct an oversight in the drafting of section 88. Section 10 of the Code confines the term "District Magistrate" to the Magistrate of a district outside a Presidency-town.

Sections 4 and 12.—The object of these sections is to make it clearer than section 110 and Schedule III now do that Sub-divisional Magistrates have power, without being specially empowered by the Local Government in that behalf, to require security for good behaviour from habitual offenders.

Section 5.—This section will restore the practice that obtained while the Code of 1872 was in force. Under that Code police-reports under section 125 were submitted through the superior officer of police appointed under section 117, but those under section 127 were submitted direct to the Magistrate.

Section 6.—This section will remove a doubt which has been expressed as to whether High Courts other than those referred to in section 268 can make rules under the Code regarding the manner in which jurors shall be chosen by lot.

Section 7.—It would seem that the only sort of condition on which suspension or remission of sentence may now be granted under section 401 is a potestative condition, that is to say, a condition to be performed by the convict and dependent on his will. This limitation may prove inconvenient, and sometimes prevent the release of convicts who might otherwise be set at large.

Section 8.—The object of this section is to give the Governor-General in Council the same powers in regard to the removal of persons confined under Chapter XXXIV of the Code as he possesses under section 32 of the Prisoners' Act, 1871, in the case of persons under sentence of imprisonment. It is desirable that, by whatever Local Government criminal lunatics may have been ordered to be confined, they should be confined wherever the most suitable accommodation has been provided for the custody of such persons.

Section 9.—This section is suggested by I. L. R. 10 Cal. 1026. The effect of it will be that a Local Government may appoint as many Chemical Examiners as it thinks fit. All must be gazetted as "Chemical Examiners" and must sign as such; but they can, for departmental purposes, be graded or distinguished from one another in such manner as the Local Government desires.

Section 10.—The power of a Criminal Court to order the transfer from the civil jail to the criminal jail of a civil prisoner against whom a criminal charge is made having been questioned in the Bombay Presidency, the Local Government asked the High Court whether that Court could make a rule conferring the power. In reply the Hon'ble the Chief Justice and Judges stated that they were very doubtful whether they had authority to make any valid rule on the subject, and advised that, if the conferment of the power was deemed necessary, recourse should be had to legislation.

It appears to the Government of Bombay and to the Government of India that the power should be conferred, and the object of this section is to confer it.

At the same time, in order that the rights given to decree-holders by the existing law may not be interfered with, it has been provided that the prisoner shall ordinarily be sent back to the civil jail when his detention under the orders of the Criminal Court has ceased.

Section 11.—Under the Code of 1872 the offence, under section 211 of the Indian Penal Code, of making a false charge of an offence with intent to injure, was triable by the Court of Session exclusively when the offence charged was punishable with imprisonment for seven years or upwards. While the Bill which became the Code of 1882 was under consideration, the Select Committee determined, on the suggestion of a Sessions Judge, that Magistrates of the first class should be empowered to deal with cases under section 211 when the offence charged was punishable with imprisonment for seven years, cases where the offence charged was punishable with imprisonment for a term exceeding seven years continuing to be exclusively triable by the Court of Session. The entry in the second column of Schedule II, in the second line of entries against section 211, was altered accordingly; but the additional entries which it is proposed by section 11 of this Bill to insert in Schedule II will make still clearer the alteration which the Select Committee intended to effect.

Section 13.—The last nine words of section 24, Act V of 1861, were repealed by Schedule I of the Code of 1882. Through an oversight the same words in section 23, Bombay Act VII of 1867, remained unrepealed and are still in force (I. L. R. 8 Bombay 534). It is now proposed to repeal them.

Section 14.—It is proposed by this section to substitute for section 225A of the Indian Penal Code a section that will cover not only the case there provided for, but the cases which section 651 of the Code of Civil Procedure was intended to meet, and others, such as those referred to in I. L. R. 8 Cal. 331 and 7 All. 67, for which no provision has hitherto been made.

Section 15.—The exigencies of prison administration occasionally necessitate the transfer from one jail to another within the same province of persons who have been imprisoned in default of giving security for keeping the peace or maintaining good behaviour.

Section 30 of the Prisoners' Act only provides for the transfer of persons sentenced to imprisonment. "Sentence" seems to imply an antecedent conviction for an offence, and persons who are imprisoned for default in furnishing security are not persons who have been so convicted.

Section 16.—The object of this section, as of section 8, is to empower the Governor-General in Council to send prisoners of unsound mind to the part of India where persons in their condition are likely to be best cared for.

Section 17.—It occasionally happens that members of criminal tribes, while on marauding expeditions in other provinces than that in which they have their homes, are arrested, ordered to give security for good behaviour, and imprisoned in default of giving it. In such cases it seems proper that the prisoners should ordinarily be sent back to the district from which they came, instead of being released in a district which may be hundreds of miles distant from their homes and where dishonesty might be their only possible means of subsistence.

LONDON EXHIBITION OF 1886.

THE following letter from the Government of India is published for general information.

H. H. RISLEY,
Offg. Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

The 11th August 1885.

Circular No. 2Ex—84—5, dated Simla, the 8th July 1885.

From—C. S. BAYLEY, ESQ., C.S., Under-Secretary to the Government of India,
Revenue and Agricultural Department,

To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

I AM directed to state for the information of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor that a proposal has been made by Messrs. H. S King & Co., the Official Agents for the Indian and Colonial Exhibition, that they should be allowed to open in the Exhibition a separate "Cigar and Tobacco Room," in which can be exhibited samples of raw and manufactured tobacco from all parts of India. Messrs. H. S. King & Co. offer to place one or more attendants in charge of this room, who will furnish sample cigars, price lists of the different makers, weights of the cigars for computation of duty, &c. They will also take charge of consignments from the makers and will take orders, either in large or small quantities. They undertake to represent all the manufacturers impartially and without preference, and to make the increased popularity and greater demand for Indian cigars their special object.

2. This proposal, which commended itself to the Royal Commissioners, has been referred by them for the consideration of the Government of India, by whom it has been formally approved. Small samples of Indian cigars and tobacco, both raw and manufactured, will be exhibited in the Imperial Courts of the Exhibition, but the space there assigned to them is necessarily limited, while it is impossible for the Government to give any facilities for trying them, such as will be offered in the proposed Tobacco Room. Under these circumstances, it has been decided that the Government exhibit of tobacco should be kept within limits sufficient to represent this important product in its principal branches. It is, therefore, strongly recommended, in the interests of the Indian Tobacco Trade, that consignments of cigars and tobacco, if sent in large quantities, should be made to Messrs. H. S. King & Co., or their Indian Agents.

Messrs. King, Hamilton & Co., Calcutta.
Messrs. King, King & Co., Bombay.
Messrs. Arbuthnot & Co., Madras.

5. Messrs. H. S. King & Co. lay much stress on the desirability of consignments of tobacco and cigars being sent to them, if possible, some months before the Exhibition opens. Indian cigars, they observe, nearly always arrive from India so wet as to be unfit for early use, and if passed through the Custom House at once before they have had time to dry, the duty payable is greatly enhanced by the superfluous damp which they contain.

4. Messrs. H. S. King & Co.'s proposals seem to the Government of India well calculated to forward the interests of the Indian Tobacco Trade, and I am therefore directed to request that as much publicity may be given to it as possible.

It is suggested that this letter should be published in the official Gazettes, both English and Vernacular, and should be distributed to the principal vernacular newspapers and generally to all persons interested in the Tobacco Trade.

REPORT ON THE WORKING OF THE LICENSED WAREHOUSE AND FIRE BRIGADE ACT IN THE HOWRAH MUNICIPALITY DURING THE YEAR 1884-85.

THE following report is published for general information.

J. WARE EDGAR,

Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

I HAVE the honour to report on the working of the Licensed Warehouse and Fire Brigade Act in this municipality for the official year ending 31st March 1885.

Jute warehouses.

1. There were 27 jute warehouses licensed during the year, showing an increase of four, owing to two of the owners of warehouses not having taken out their licenses the previous year. They have, however, done so this year, paying up in full for both the years.

2. A classified list of warehouses which were licensed during the year is given in Appendix I. There were no new warehouses established during the year.

3. The total receipts or income amounted to Rs. 6,000 from license fees only, as there were no cases of prosecution, and hence no fines. However, there has been an increase of income as compared with the previous year of Rs. 287-10-3, apart from the sum of Rs. 400 paid in for the previous year. The following is the expenditure in the inspection of warehouses during the year:—

	Rs.
1 Inspector	600
Contingencies	2
Total ...	602

Fire Brigade.

4. The fire brigade establishment was entirely under the control of the Deputy Commissioner of Police, Calcutta, during the year under review. He is making proper arrangements for establishing a steam fire engine on this side of the river. The only fire worth recording was at the Howrah Hydraulic Press, belonging to Messrs. Haworth & Co., which took several days to completely subdue, and the estimated loss is about Rs. 60,000. A statement showing the particulars of fires is given in Appendix II. This was received from the officer in charge of the fire brigade here. The following is the expenditure incurred during the year, irrespective of the amount expended by the Deputy Commissioner of Police:—

	Rs.	A.	P.
Fire brigade establishment	599	0	0
Feed and keep of horses	26	8	9
Repairs to engines	200	0	0
Contingencies	21	4	3
Eighty per cent. paid to the Commissioner of Police ...	4,280	0	0
On account of purchase of fire engine from London ...	3,630	0	0
Total ...	8,756	13	0

W. H. GRIMLEY,

Chairman of the Howrah Municipality.

METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL SUMMARY OF THE PROVINCE OF BENGAL FOR THE MONTH OF JULY 1885.

THE month of July in Bengal is one of the most important of the whole year from a meteorological point of view, for it is the first complete month of the actual monsoon period. It is generally the case that the complete establishment of the two great branches of the monsoon current does not take place till quite the end of June or beginning of July, and usually the rainfall in the Lower Provinces in July is heavier than during any other month of the year. Another reason why the meteorology of July is important, is that the distribution of the rains in July generally gives a rough indication of the probable distribution of the rainfall during the whole of the monsoon period.

The circumstances and conditions of the establishment of the south-west monsoon have been dealt with in previous reports, and it has been pointed out that, while during June the rainfall in Bengal is practically almost entirely brought up by the Bay of Bengal monsoon current, at the end of this month, or commencement of July, the Bombay branch of the monsoon, blowing from the Indian Ocean and the Arabian Sea, advances slowly across Central India and the Central Provinces, and makes its influence felt in Bengal, and particularly in the western districts of the Province. In its forward progress the Bombay current meets the Bay of Bengal monsoon current, and the interaction between the two currents gives rise to ascentional motion, which, according to well known physical laws, causes condensation of the aqueous vapour in the form of rain. The Arabian Sea branch of the monsoon current therefore exercises a considerable influence on the rainfall in Behar, Chutia Nagpur and Bengal generally, during July.

The Bay of Bengal current, if it alone prevailed, as is the case to a certain extent in June, would undoubtedly deposit the greater part of its vapour as rain in the neighbourhood of the sea coast, and along the areas nearest to the hills in the east and north of the Province. The interaction between the two branches of the monsoon current is undoubtedly greatest in the western districts of the Province, and therefore tends to give heavier rainfall to Chutia Nagpur, South Behar and West Orissa, or to those parts of the Province which would receive the smallest amounts of rain from the direct action of the Bay of Bengal branch; that is, the combined effect of the two branches is to produce in normal years a fairly uniform rainfall over the whole Province. The amount of the interaction between the two branches of the monsoon current will depend on two things—first, on the relative strengths of the two currents; and second, on the position or direction in which the currents meet, for as the Bengal current is changed by the physical configuration of the country over which it is flowing from a south-westerly wind at the head of the Bay, first into a southerly, then into a south-easterly, and finally into an easterly current, it is evident that interaction with the westerly current will be more marked in Behar where the Bay of Bengal current is easterly, than it will be in Orissa where it is south-westerly. Thus in normal years the rainfall in the western parts of Behar and of Chutia Nagpur is practically entirely brought about by the interaction above described.

It must, however, be remembered that the south-west monsoon winds are by no means steady. They blow vigorously for a few days, giving more or less general rain, and then fall off in strength, when the rainfall becomes local. A fresh inrush of winds then occurs followed by general rainfall with subsequent lulls as just described. It is during these periods of comparative calm, that conditions are favourable to the generation of small cyclonic storms, which in most cases are formed near the head of the Bay, though they also, but more rarely, may form over the land. With the advance of these cyclonic storms heavy rain generally occurs, and it depends to a great extent on the character of these small storms or atmospheric whirls, that is, whether they are of concentrated or of diffused nature, whether the rainfall which accompanies their advance falls only near the path of the storm, or whether it is widely diffused over a large portion of the Province. With the advance of these storms strong humid winds generally set in over the whole province giving rise to general rain for some days.

It will thus be seen that the meteorological conditions of July depend mainly on two points: first, on the character and intensity of the two monsoon currents from the Bay of Bengal and Arabian Sea; and second, on the occurrence, nature and paths of the small cyclonic storms which are so characteristic of the rainy season.

Average distribution of the rainfall in July.—Two lines of maximum normal rainfall may be traced in Bengal during July. The first line is more or less parallel to the sea coast, and is brought by the humid winds from the Bay of Bengal. The second line of maximum rainfall is more or less parallel to the hill ranges in the east and north of the Province, and this is accounted for by the well known fact that these ranges cause ascensional air motion of the Bay of Bengal current, and consequent precipitation of heavy rainfall. The line of 20 inches average rainfall in July runs through the Eastern Bengal districts at some little distance from the coast line, the distance from the coast increasing as it runs to the eastward; the second line of 20 inches average rainfall is found along the Darjeeling Hills, running almost east and west. The line of fifteen inches average rainfall starts from Saugor Island and runs in an easterly direction parallel to the first-mentioned line till near the Tipperah Hills, when it suddenly turns in a north-westerly direction, finally passing through Bogra and Dinagepore, where it is more or less parallel to the line of 20 inches in the Darjeeling Hills. The line of 12 inches average rainfall runs from Matihari in Northern Behar almost due south-east parallel to the 15-inch line to Rajmehal, and thence through Jessore along the borders of the Chutia Nagpur district into South Behar. Inside this area of average rainfall of less than twelve inches, there are two areas of considerable interest. The first is the area of minimum rainfall of the month, which embraces the Jessore district, some parts of the Nuddea and Burdwan districts, as well as the Rajshahye district. This minimum fall is explained by the fact that this portion of Bengal is not influenced by either of the three causes which tend to produce increased rainfall: namely, it is not near the coast line when the humid winds expend their first force; it is not near any hill ranges where ascensional air motion will take place; and third, it is not under the influence of the interaction between the two branches of the monsoon current as previously described. The other area of interest is one of increased precipitation near Patna. The Chutia Nagpur Division receives during the month a normal rainfall of between twelve and fifteen inches; and this comparatively large amount is evidently produced by the interaction of the two branches of the monsoon current over this district.

Meteorological summary of the month —At the commencement of the month there was a comparative lull in the south-west monsoon current from the Bay of Bengal blowing over Bengal, and winds were westerly over the western part of the Province. At this time, however, a strong monsoon current was blowing over the centre and south of the Bay, and on the 2nd of the month this current, with its attendant wave of heavy rainfall, commenced to advance over the Province, at first gradually driving back the westerly current: A kind of contest then commenced between these two wind systems, and after the first advance of the Bengal current just mentioned, the Bombay current began to strengthen, and for four or five days it steadily drove back the Bengal current. On the 9th and 10th, however, the latter current strengthened, and drove back the westerly current, and on the latter date the influence of the westerly current had practically ceased. A slight oscillating action, however, took place between the two currents, which continued up to the 13th, and on the following day a rather rapid fall of the barometer took place at the head of the Bay, and determined the formation of a small barometric depression or cyclonic storm. It was, however, a very small and feeble one, and it was formed apparently close to the Orissa coast, and by Wednesday, the 15th, it had crossed the Orissa coast and was to the west of Cuttack. It then advanced in a north-westerly direction through Chutia Nagpur, gradually becoming more feeble and finally disappeared. The storm was an exceedingly shallow one, and it brought only light rain to the districts through which it passed. Two days afterwards, on the 17th instant, a second exceedingly feeble barometric depression was formed over the Sunderbuns with its centre some little distance to the south-east of Calcutta. This as usual moved in a westerly direction, but it became more feeble in its advance, and it was of such slight intensity that on the 18th it had almost disappeared. On the 19th, pressure which had previously been falling generally over the Province fell particularly in South-West Bengal, and the small storm was intensified, and with its advance inland a general advance of the Bay of Bengal current took place, bringing up heavy and general rain to the greater part of the Province. The Bombay branch of the monsoon current then commenced to make itself felt again, and by its interaction with the Bengal current brought rather heavy rain to Behar. The oscillations of pressure in Bengal at this time were abnormally large, and as the result of a rapid fall of the barometer at the head of the Bay, a small cyclonic storm was formed on the 23rd a short distance from the land, and at 10 A.M. on this day its centre was a short distance to the south-east of Saugor Island. The storm was again of extremely feeble nature, and it moved in a westerly direction crossing the Balasore coast, and on the 24th its centre was to the west of Balasore, but it only brought up small amounts of rain to the districts through which it passed. The small storm continued its advance in a north-westerly direction till the 26th, when it filled up and disappeared. At this time a rapid fall of the barometer took place, which was particularly noticeable over parts of South-West Bengal, and this was followed by the formation on Tuesday, the 28th, of a distinct barometric depression over South-West Bengal, and at 10 A.M. of this day its centre was to the south-east of Calcutta On the 29th the depression had advanced in a westerly or north-westerly direction, and at 10 A. M. on this day its centre was near Midnapore. It continued its advance on the 30th through Chutia Nagpur, and afterwards travelled through the North-West Provinces, and, according to the telegraphic reports received from the India Meteorological office, the storm was still in existence on Saturday, the 1st of August, near Agra. This storm, it will be seen, had a longer life history than has been the case with most of the small storms, which have been generated at the head of the Bay during the present monsoon, and it would therefore appear to have been of rather greater intensity. It brought up to many stations in its path very heavy rain, and with its advance a light monsoon set in, which, however, seemed to fall off rapidly in intensity at the close of the week, and on the 31st very small amounts of rain only were being received over the Province, and the distribution of the showers was very local. Thus it will be seen that barometric depressions were rather frequent during the month; but that in all cases they were of rather feeble nature.

Pressure was during the previous month almost normal, the average variation being a defect of only about three thousandths of an inch. The actual variations of pressure during the month have of course been generally of the usual oscillatory character, and to a certain extent they have been alluded to under the meteorology for the month. In addition to these oscillations, however, pressure has to a great extent been governed by the formation and movement of the barometric depressions previously described.

During the first week of the month the average pressure scarcely varied from the normal, but during the second week the distribution changed somewhat, and the average variations from the normal were an excess of 0·04″ in Orissa, and a defect of 0·01″ in Behar, the average variation for the whole Province being an excess of 0·012″. The tendency during the third week was to rather intensify the excess pressure, and it became equal to 0·03″. In the following week pressure on the whole decreased, and the result was an average defect of 0·044″, while during the last few days of the month the defect averaged 0·033″. It will thus be seen that the general average pressure for the whole month has been below the normal by very small amounts, and the actual defect has been only 0·008″.

The variations of temperature have been of little or no practical importance throughout the month, and the actual average temperature of all the recording stations is almost absolutely normal temperature. In no meteorological division has the average temperature varied from the normal by as much as 1°, and the largest excess temperature in any division has been 0·6° in Chutia Nagpur, while the largest defect has been 0·4° in Orissa.

Rainfall during the month has on the whole been very continuous, and there have been practically no breaks in any district of any great importance. In Orissa and South-West Bengal, the only days on which rainfall was very scanty or almost absent, were the 12th and the 31st, though in Orissa on the 11th and 13th also rainfall was scanty. In East Bengal rainfall was rather scanty on the 1st, on the 14th and 15th, on the 23rd and 24th and on the 31st. In North Bengal rainfall was almost absent on the 14th, on the 23rd and 24th and on the 31st. In North Behar rainfall was practically absent on the 1st, on the 17th, on the 25th and on the 31st, though in the central parts of the district rainfall was very scanty from the 13th up to the 27th. In South Behar the periods of comparative absence of rainfall were from the 14th to the 18th and on the 31st, and in Chutia Nagpur the rainfalls were decidedly local on the 1st and 2nd, on the 7th and 8th and on the 17th. The extreme frequency of rainy days during the month may perhaps best be seen by stating that in North Bengal the number of rainy days has been 5·3 in excess of the normal number, and in South Behar the number has been 3·5 in excess of the normal. In North Behar the excess number of rainy days has been 2·5, and in East Bengal and Orissa the number of rainy days has been slightly in excess of the normal only. The only districts in which the number of rainy days has been smaller than usual has been South-West Bengal and Chutia Nagpur, but in neither case is the defect more than fractional.

The actual distribution of the rainfall is very difficult to describe clearly, and the lines which represent equal rainfalls over the Province, instead of showing fairly regular curves as described under the head of the normal rainfall of the month, are extremely contorted. The heaviest rainfall in the Province has been at Buxa, which reports 51·58 inches, and from this point, as a kind of centre, the rainfall decreases gradually on all sides till a tract of country is reached where the rainfall is below 10 inches. This tract of country includes parts of the Dacca and Comillah districts, such as Kishoregunge, Brahmanberiah, Dacca and Munshigunge, a large portion of the Furreedpore district, considerable parts of the 24-Pergunnahs district, the southern parts of the Midnapore district, and almost the whole of Orissa and the southern and western parts of Chutia Nagpur and of South Behar. In East Bengal, to the south of this line of low rainfall, the amounts recorded increase again steadily, till at Cox's Bazar the rainfall is 43·9 inches. In North Behar, too, there is an area which has received falls below 10 inches, and this includes the greater part of the Bhagulpore district. Areas of rather large rainfall above 20 inches are also to be found in the Sonthal Pergunnahs and at Kotulpore in the Bankoora district.

Comparing the actual rainfall with the normal, the greater part of the Province shows a fall in excess of the normal. The areas which show a defective fall may be briefly described as the south-eastern and south-western districts and a portion of North Behar. The north-eastern parts of the Province show very large excess falls, and the central parts and the north-western divisions generally considerable excess falls. The area of greatest excess again starts from the Darjeeling Hills, and from this point spreads out on all sides, the amount of the excess gradually diminishing till it meets the line of normal rainfall in the south-western and south-eastern districts, though of course the area of defective rainfall in North Behar must be excluded in this statement. The line dividing the areas which have received excess falls from those in defect may be said to start from the Mymensingh district and to pass through the Pubna, Furreedpore, Nuddea, and 24-Pergunnahs districts to Midnapore, and then to pass in a north-westerly direction through Bankoora, Hazaribagh, Gya, and Shahabad districts. There are again a good many local exceptions to this rough description, and of these the markedly defective falls (beyond the falls at the neighbouring stations) at the following places are the most important:—Munshigunge, Rangamati, Bongong, Beerbhoom, Monghyr, Sasseram, Jellasore, Chandbally, Jajpore, Hookitolah, False Point, and Pooree. It may here be noticed that many parts of the Burdwan, Nuddea, Bankoora, and Hooghly districts, which have previously received comparatively small amounts of rain during this year, show an excess fall.

Taking up the average rainfall of the seven meteorological divisions, North Bengal has received a fall largely in excess of the normal, having reported an average of 18·99 inches against the normal fall of 13·91 inches, which is 36 per cent. in excess of the normal. North Behar has received an excess fall of 1·46 inches, which is equal to 12 per cent. in excess of the normal. South Behar has received 12·86 inches against the normal amount of 11·86 inches, which is 8 per cent. in excess. South-West Bengal has recorded an average fall of 11·55 inches against the normal 11·75 inches, which is only 2 per cent. in defect. Chutia Nagpur has received 12·96 inches against 13·60 inches, which is equal to 5 per cent. in defect. East Bengal has received 15·72 inches against the ordinary fall of 16·65 inches, and is therefore 6 per cent. in defect; while Orissa has only received 9·77 inches against the normal fall of 13·46 inches, or is no less than 28 per cent. in defect. It will thus be seen that the only district which has really suffered from a rainfall decidedly in defect is Orissa. Putting the defects against the excess falls, and considering the divisions of equal value, it would appear that the Province, on the whole, has received a rainfall of 2 per cent. in excess of the normal fall.

The following table gives full data for the comparison of the actual and the normal rainfall of the month of July in all districts of the Province. The figures are derived from the average and actual rainfall of the rain-recording stations in each district, due allowance or weight being made for the area which each station represents. This gives a more accurate average than the arithmetical means given in the weekly and monthly meteorological tables. The first column gives the normal or average district rainfall as determined from the rainfall observations of the past 15 years. The second column gives the actual district rainfall as determined from the weighted actual rainfalls of the month at the reporting stations in each district. The third column expresses the ratio of the actual district rainfall of the past month to the normal rainfall as a precentage. The fourth column gives the same information as the third column in a slightly different form. It states as a percentage how much the district rainfall of the month varied in excess or defect from the normal rainfall and is hence the difference between the numbers in the third column and 100.

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of former years (at the Park-street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 0·6 higher; and, finally, the thermometer, which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards, is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

CALCUTTA, the 10*th August* 1885.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 7TH OF AUGUST 1885.

At the close of the previous week a small cyclonic storm had passed away from Bengal into the North-West Provinces, and with its advance a light monsoon had set in over the Province. On the Saturday pressure was falling generally, and there was a tendency to the formation of an area of low pressure over Central Bengal, and around this area of low pressure there was a distinct tendency for winds to circulate cyclonically. The falling pressure continued on the 2nd, and in addition to the slight barometric depression in Central Bengal, centres of comparatively low pressure appeared in North and in South Behar. On this day the tendency to cyclonic circulation of winds round the area of low pressure in Central Bengal was distinctly marked, though over the remainder of the Province nearly normal monsoon winds were blowing. The small depression then commenced to travel in a westerly direction, and on Monday, the 3rd, instant, it apparently became absorbed in the general comparatively low pressure area, which usually exists at this period in South Behar and Chutia Nagpur, though during this day also winds at the western stations were somewhat irregular, but they still showed the apparent influence of the area of low pressure.

During the existence of the depression in Central Bengal, and its westerly movement, it brought moderate to heavy rain to many of the districts in Central and South-West Bengal, and also to Chutia Nagpur and parts of South Behar and Orissa, but in East and North Bengal and North Behar the rainfall was decidedly lighter. Immediately after the disappearance of this first depression, a second area of low pressure commenced to form over Central Bengal, which was attended by the usual cyclonic circulation of winds. At the same time fairly strong humid winds were blowing over South West Bengal, apparently brought up by the previous depression, and these tended to strengthen the depression which had formed, and it commenced to move as a clearly marked but still feeble cyclonic storm in a westerly direction, and on the morning of the 5th its centre was not far from Burdwan, where the pressure on this day was 29·528″. It again moved in a westerly direction, and on the 6th the depression was in Chutia Nagpur not far from Hazaribagh, and again on Friday, the 7th, the small storm was distinctly perceptible in the neighbourhood of Gya, though it was evidently growing more feeble and was rapidly breaking up. This storm was decidedly larger and more influential than the previous one, and it was fed by rather strong moist southerly winds, and it therefore again gave rise to very heavy rainfall in the districts affected by it, while at the same time it brought lighter rain to the other districts of the Province. The rainfall was therefore exceptionally heavy in South-West and Central Bengal on the 5th, and lighter on the 6th and 7th, and it was also very heavy in Chutia Nagpur and South Behar on the 5th, 6th and 7th.

Pressure during the week has been mainly influenced by the two barometric depressions above described, and though there were other oscillatory changes occurring simultaneously over the greater part of the Province, they were of not much importance. As may be expected, the central parts of Bengal and South Behar show a pressure distinctly lower than the remainder of the Province, and thus while at Moorshedabad, Jessore and Gya pressure has been from 0·03″ to 0·04″ below the normal, in Orissa pressure has been 0·03″ above the normal, and in North Behar and East Bengal it has been practically normal. The average pressure for the whole Province for the week has been 0·007″ below the normal as compared with a defect of 0·033″ during the previous week. The tendency of the pressure changes has therefore been in an upward direction.

The changes of temperature have also been comparatively small during the week. On the 1st it was generally rather above the normal, the excess varying from 1° to 2°. On the following day, however, it fell and became nearly normal except in Orissa, where it was in defect and with slight variations temperature oscillated a little above the normal or below it for the remainder of the week. The average of the whole week shows that in Orissa there was a defect of 0·9°, and in East Bengal a defect of 1·0°; in South-West Bengal and South Behar temperature has been normal, while in Chutia Nagpur there has been a slight excess temperature of 0·4°, and in North Behar an excess temperature of 0·7°.

The rainfall for the week, as will be seen in the description previously given, has been particularly heavy in the central portions and southern districts of the Province, while it has been comparatively light in the northern districts, and to a certain extent also in the eastern districts. Thus Chutia Nagpur has received 6·25 inches of rain against the normal amount of 3·71 inches, which is no less then 69 per cent. in excess. South-West Bengal has received 4·27 inches against the normal 2·85 inches, or nearly 50 per cent. in excess. South Behar has recorded 3·68 inches against 2·58 inches, which is 43 per cent. in excess, and East Bengal 4·03 inches against 3·77 inches, which is 7 per cent. in excess. The other three divisions have received defective falls, North Behar reporting 2·02 inches against 2·33 inches, or 13 per cent. in defect, North Bengal 1·59 inches against 2·60 inches, or 39 per cent. in defect, and Orissa has received 3·0 inches against the normal 3·25 inches, or 5 per cent. in defect. It will thus be seen that those districts, such as Chutia Nagpur and parts of South Bengal, which were in defect in July are now receiving an excess fall, and those districts, such as South Bengal and North Behar, which received previously an excess fall, are now receiving a diminished fall.

During the week there have been some exceptionally heavy rainfalls recorded. Thus on the 1st instant Buxa reported 5·32 inches, on the 2nd instant Contai in the Midnapore district reported the excessive fall of 11·55 inches, and Bhagwanpore in the same district also received 3·5 inches, Balarampore in the Purneah district on this day received 4·06 inches, and at Deoghur 5·23 inches were registered. On the 3rd Ghatal (Midnapore district) registered 4·04 inches, Kotalpore (Bankoora district) 5·37 inches, and Onda (Bankoora district) 4·60 inches. On the 4th Hooghly received 4·3 inches, and Pakri Barwan (Gya district) 4·18 inches. On the 5th Ghatal again registered 6·15 inches, Garbetta (Midnapore district) 9·34 inches, Barrackpore 5·37 inches, Jehanabad (Hooghly district) 8·02 inches, Raipore (Bankoora district) 8·03 inches, Bauphal (Backergunge district) 4·78 inches and Bettiah 4·18 inches. On the 6th Palamow registered 4·85 inches, and on the 7th Aurangabad received 4·20 inches. Also during the week heavy rainfalls in excess of two and three inches have been so numerous that no attempt can be made to mention them. The number of rainy days during the week have in the various divisions been nearly equal to the normal, and thus over the whole Province the normal number of rainy days for this week is 4·3, while the actual average number of rainy days has been 4·5.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the Province for the week ending Friday, the 7th of August 1885:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h., and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No 86 formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

MEMORANDA.

THE main features in connection with the mortuary statistics of the districts in Bengal for the month of June 1885, as gathered from the table appended to this memoranda, are the following—

1. That the deaths of 99,476 persons were registered out of a population of 66,163,884 in these districts, representing an annual death-rate of 18·00 per 1,000 against 20·64 per 1,000 in the preceding month, and 17·76 per 1,000 during the corresponding month of the past year, indicating, as compared with the preceding month, a considerable falling off in the registration of deaths.

2. That the following districts furnished the highest proportions of deaths. :—

Districts.	Ratio per mille.	Districts.	Ratio per mille.
Birbhum	40·56	Julpaiguri	24·72
Rajshahye	30·96	Hazaribagh	24·24
Burdwan	29·16	Monghyr	24·12
Nuddea	28·92	Maldah	23·76

3. That the mortality from the principal death-causes, as contrasted with the results of the corresponding month of 1884, stands as follows :—

	Ratio per mille during—
	June 1885.	June 1884.
Cholera	2·28	1·68
Small-pox	·12	·36
Fever	11·64	12·00
Bowel-complaints	·72	·72
Injury	·60	·48
Other causes	2·28	2·28

The only noticeable feature revealed by the above figures is that there was a sensible increase in fatal results from cholera, and a decrease in that from fever.

4. That of the diseases named above, while small-pox and maladies grouped under the head of "Other causes" were noticeably fatal only in the Chumparun and Poori districts at the rates of 2·76 and 10·20 per 1,000 of their population, respectively, and bowel-complaints and injury proved nowhere severe, cholera and fever caused the highest mortality in the following districts :—

Cholera.	Ratio per mille.	Fever.	Ratio per mille.

* A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the natives remains as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Age," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of the Europeans above alluded to, cannot be employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the authorized form of age classification.
